HOW TO USE THIS GENEALOGY

This Genealogy is arranged in six Family Groups originating with the six children of James Young Anderson. Within each Family Group other related family groups are noted when information has been available.

Each family group is presented in outline form to enable you to visualize the span of time and generations.

EXAMPLE:

J.Y. ANDERSON

CHILDREN OF J.Y.ANDERSON (Each child begins 1 Family Group)

I. CHILDREN OF THE FAMILY GROUP

[a. GRANDCHILDREN OF THE FAMILY GROUP

[1. GREAT-GRANDCHILDREN OF THE FAMILY GROUP

[A. GREAT-GREAT GRANDCHILDREN OF THE FAMILY GROUP

Footnotes and addresses have been added when available. The most complete Family Group is #3, David Blue Anderson, Sr., my Great Grandfather because my curiosity about him is what started this whole report, and because it has been difficult locating members of the other five family groups.

ABBREVIATIONS:

b. born

d. died

m. married

= married

* An asterik following someones name means there is a note about them at the end of the outline

1 A number means a footnote follows with the same number

INTRODUCTION

In January of 1966 I wrote to my Great Aunt Myrtle for information about the Anderson Family Tree. That letter launched us into one and one half years of correspondence which involved many interested family members. Because of their help and cooperation this genealogy has been possible. Although the family ancestry is not complete in this volume it will provide anyone a basis upon which to make further research. In time I hope to be able to print a supplement to this genealogy. I apologize for any misspelled or incorrect entries and hope you will advise me as to any needed corrections.

I would especially like to ask your help in keeping this family history up to date with future additions or subtractions.

Special thanks go to the following family members who took time to be of substantial help: Myrtle Kramer, Pearl Funk, June Marchant, Joan Bertus. Vera Mills Haeger, Bethel Anderson Hatch, Frances A. Longenecker, Dr. Arnold Smythe, Margaret Schaefer, Mabel Rhodes, Paul Kramer, Hazel Lukosky, Lyle Anderson, Dr. G.I. Anderson.

Civil War Records were obtained on form NAR-288 General Services Administration, National Archives and Record Service, Collections Officer, Washington, D.C. 20408.

Information on the Mills Family was compiled and published by Mrs. Edmund Haeger in 1963. The History covers 12 generations from the year 1630. There were 70 books printed, a half dozen of which still remain with Mrs. Haeger at her home, Centerfield Farm, Dundee, Illinois and the rest were placed in places such as the following: Newberry Genealogical in Chicago; Maryland Historical in Baltimore; New England Historical in Boston; Congressional Library in Washington D.C.; San Francisco; and Los Angeles.

Additional copies of this Genealogy may be obtained from me for $1.00 per copy. Address all correspondence to me at the below address.

"THE seasons they go round and round,
And the painted ponies go up and down;
We're captive on the carrousel of time.
We can't return, we can only look
Behind from where we came
And go round and round and round
In the Circle Game."

'BEHIND FROM WHERE WE CAME'

There are two stories concerning our Anderson's family's arrival in America.

The first is that: William Anderson was one of two brothers(or three) who came from Scotland. He married twice having 12 children by his first wife who was born in Scotland also, and 2 children by his second wife.

As you can see there is no indication of date, and no location named with which to trace the existence of William and his children. More information would be needed to research this story.

The second is that: James Anderson came from Scotland near the close of the Revolutionary War, (approximately 1781) and settled in the state of Virginia. Later he moved to Pennsylvania, near Harrisburg, where he married and a son was born. The son, also named James, was born in 1785, near Harrisburg, Penn. In 1807 he married Martha Young, a beautiful girl and the first to introduce red hair into the family. She was born near Youngstown, Ohio and said to be related to the Young for which Youngstown was named. A son was born to this union near Harrisburg, Pa. in 1810 and named James Young Anderson.

This information (according to Vera Mills Haeger) was collected by Sylvester B. Anderson while visiting early homesites in Pennsylvania and Ohio in 1897 and given to Vera Mills. What a find if only we knew where the Pa. homesite was. Without that information it will take a great deal of time to research as 'near Harrisburg' could have meant up to 50 miles away.

To summarize this story then:

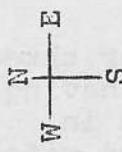

JAMES ANDERSON

JAMES ANDERSON (1785)
m. Martha Young

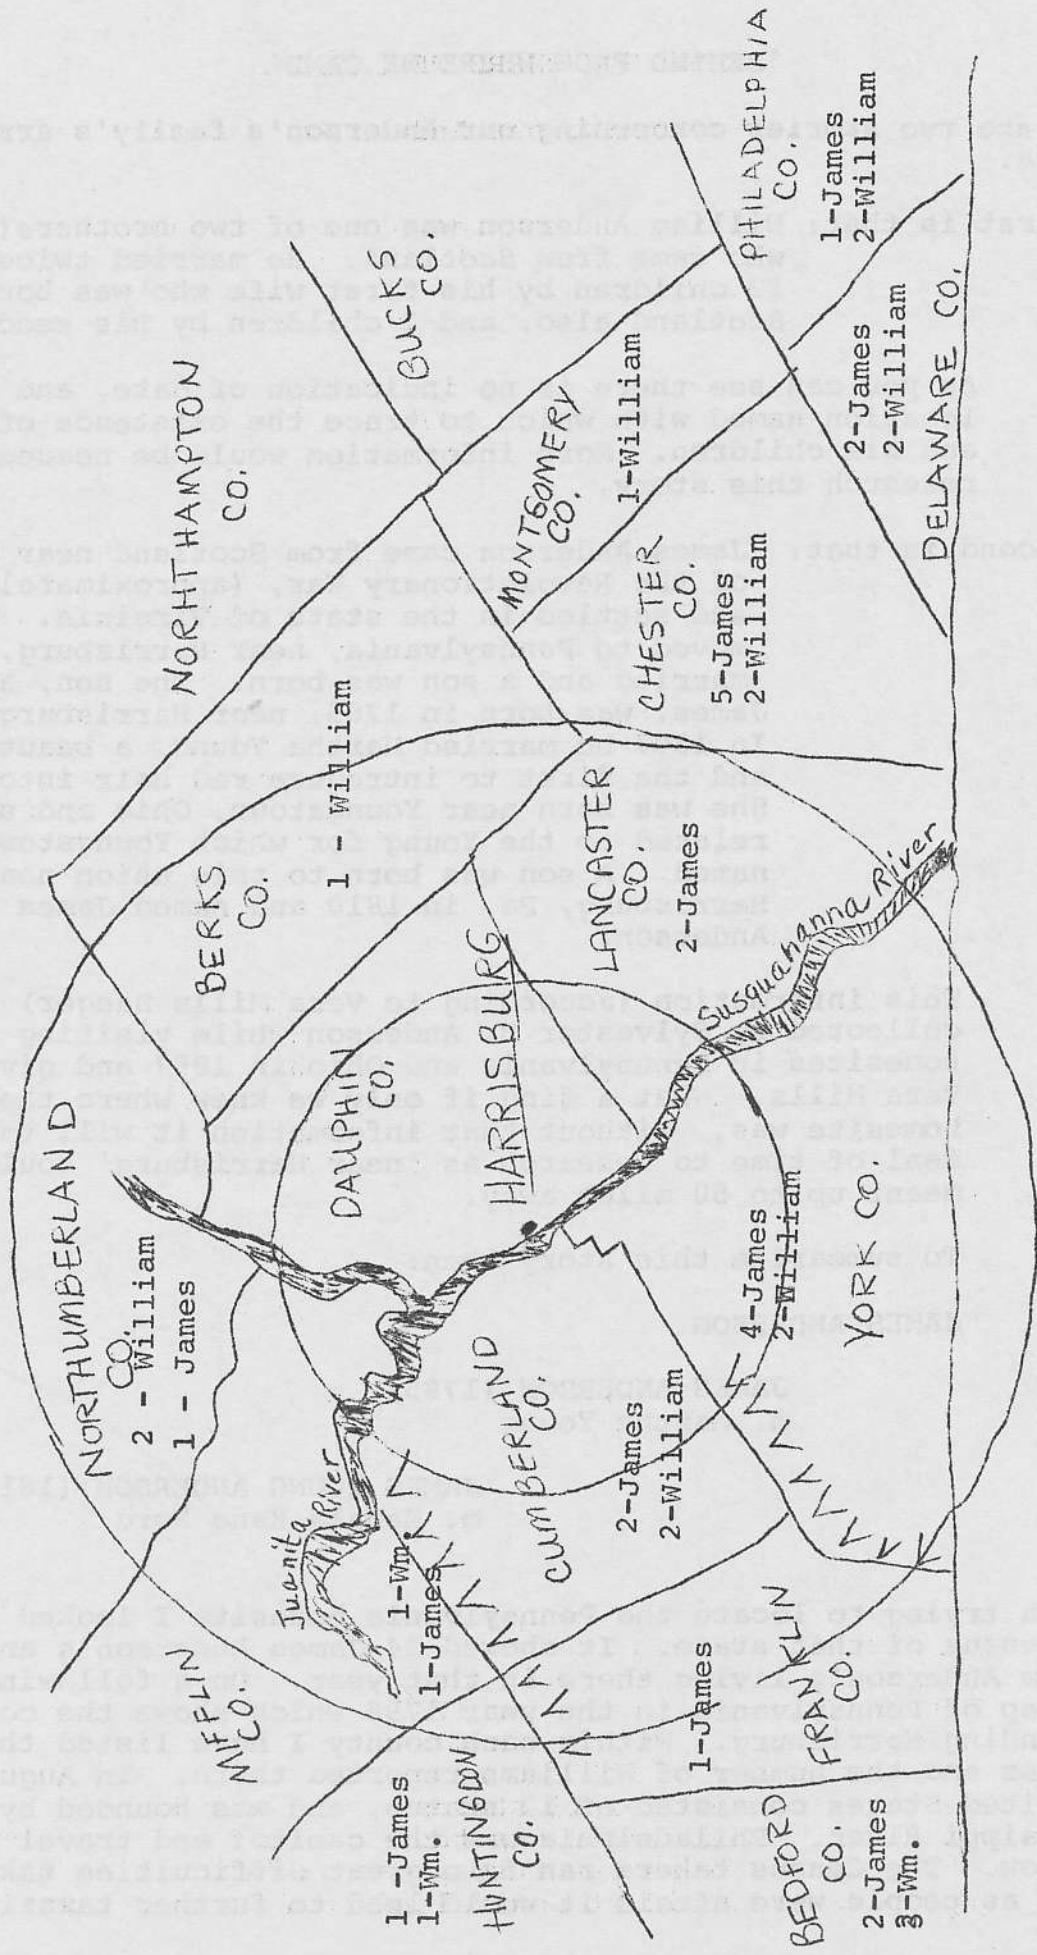

JAMES YOUNG ANDERSON (1810)
m. Mahala Kane Ford

In trying to locate the Pennsylvania homesite I looked in the 1790 Census of that state. It showed 24 James Anderson's and 22 William Anderson's living there in that year. On a following page is a map of Pennsylvania in the year 1796 which shows the counties surrounding Harrisburg. Within each county I have listed the number of James and the number of Williams reported there. In August 1790 the United States consisted of 12 states, and was bounded by the Mississippi River. Philadelphia was the capitol and travel and mail was slow. The Census takers ran into great difficulties taking the Census as people were afraid it would lead to further taxation.

THE STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA
from the lateft surveys
1796

Information from 1790 Census

Scale 5 10 15 20 miles

According to the records of the 1790 Census the following information was recorded:

free white male 16 yrs and up including head of family	free white male under 16	free white female inc- luding head of family	all other persons	slaves

The above numbers represent what I imagine the Anderson family would have looked like in the Census of 1790. That means it would include, James Anderson, his wife, and his 5 year old son, James, Jr.

Going on this premise there is one James Anderson that fits in the 1790 census, and he is in Mifflin County, that portion south of the Juanita River. Without further research there is no way of knowing if this James Anderson is indeed our ancestor. I have not researched any of the later census reports either, those of 1800, 1810 and 1820 would probably reveal more.

OTHER JAMES ANDERSONS' listed on the preceeding map are:

THE HISTORY OF THE NAME OF ANDERSON

The Scottish surname of Anderson literally means 'son of Andrew' but as held by families of Lowland Origin denotes 'Servant of St. Andrew' patron saint of Scotland. The Gaelic equivalent of Anderson is "MacAindrea" or MacAndrew.

It is not yet possible to determine what area in Scotland our immediate family descends from until we determine where we were in Pennsylvania.

- * I have a Certified copy of Marriage for James Z. Anderson to Mahala Ford, on the 29th of February 1835, given under my hand this 2 day of June, 1835. Thomas Porter, J. P. The State of Ohio, Perry County.
- * Greene County Court House, Jefferson, Iowa, reports J.Y. Anderson died August 24, 1866, intestate.
- * The Anderson children here listed were reported born in both Mt. Liberty and Mt. Vernon, Ohio. A distance apart of nine miles, both however, in Knox County, Ohio. Knox County, Ohio informs me that they have no record of births prior to 1867 so there is no way to verify the place or dates of birth accurately.

THESE ARE THE SIX FAMILY GROUPS

JAMES YOUNG ANDERSON:

Born near Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, son of James Anderson, in the year 1810. Married to Mahala Kane Ford in Perry County, Ohio, February 29, 1835. Six children were born to this union

James Young Anderson was a fine looking man of wonderful physique and robust health, known for his dignity and military bearing. He died at the age of 56, a victim of early day doctors who used bleeding.

MAHALA KANE FORD:

Daughter of Peter Kane, a Catholic, who came from England, more probably, Ireland, in the late 1700's and married Polly Smith, daughter of John Smith, from England. (Ada Mills, daughter of Miranda Dyle Anderson Mills, was born on Mahala's 62nd birthday and remembers her vividly and loved her dearly.)

Mahala had been brought up in a Catholic girl's school, near Somerset, Ohio, Perry County. Here she received a somewhat superficial education, learning besides the rudiments, to sing beautifully, to dance, to sew and to arrange her beautiful curls becomingly. She was known for her great beauty, even in old age. Her dancing so filled with grace and lightness was often described as, "She could dance on a mirror without breaking it."

In spite of her education, Mahala proved a sturdy pioneer. She and her husband, James, being representative of the early pioneers, who gave a high character to early Ohio and Iowa.

Many memories are related of the gifted Mahala. Besides her beauty and her dulcet singing, she was known for her vivacious personality and her caprice of sparkling wit. Mahala had a romantic life. When quite young, she married John Ford, a fine young man. Their marriage was a happy one, and they were blessed with two baby boys. One summer day, they were cruising on Lake Erie in a sail boat. A violent windstorm suddenly swept across the lake, capsizing the boat. In the storm whipped waves, John, and the two infant sons were drowned. Mahala herself, a fine swimmer, had done all in her power to save them, but she was almost unconscious when rescued.

As an old lady, full of honors and esteemed by everyone, she still glowed with beauty and animation. She wore little black lace caps embroidered in purple and trimmed with lavender bows, set attractively upon her wavy white hair. She had a fund of stories of the folklore type, and entertained her grandchildren after *rocking them to sleep, singing the Te Deum Laudames in Latin.

* This appears as it was written in material supplied to me by Mrs. Edmund Haeger

JOSEPH ADAMS ANDERSON
b. 1-24-1836 in Knox County, Ohio
m. 1. Maria 1856
2. Jenny
d. 2-20-1894
Buried: Dillavou Cemetery, Ralston, Iowa

Family Group 1

Not too much information can be found on Uncle Joe and his family. It is possible he was in the Civil War. It is known he sold nursery stock and lived in Storm Lake, Iowa. In later life he moved to a soldiers home and often visited his brother David at his farm in Kendrick Township. He had a particular diet of gruel. He died at David's farm. It is said he was a writer and published a book titled A FEW HINTS ON COSMOGONY. All of his papers and books were sent to one of his daughters after his death.

CHILDREN: (Order of birth unknown)

- I. Marshall Anderson m. Helen
Three children (2 redheads, 1 brown head)
Was a barber in Marshalltown, Iowa
- II. Frank Anderson
Ran a hotel in a little town near Portland, Oregon. In 1908 Myrtle Kramer and Pearl Funk visited them. Frank had a daughter Inez, who married a man by the name of Lindberg.
Last known she lived in Coos Bay, Oregon, with her daughter and was having cancer surgery in New York City.
- III. Florence Anderson
Lives in Oregon, has two or three children
A note I have says she was born 1871
- IV. Mary Anderson
Lives Willametta, Oregon
- V. Joseph Anderson, Jr.
Lives Puenta, California

ALFRED BEDELL ANDERSON

Born: 1-29-1837

Married: 11-22-1860 to Samantha Goodnite Miller

Died: 1-18-1878

Family Group 2

Aunt Mant, as Samantha was called, has confused us all with her three marriages, which are written out in detail under the Miller and Nesbitt histories. Alfred was a clerk in a store in Jefferson, Iowa, and he was Samantha's second husband. It was said of Aunt Mant, "no better cook, or more generous woman ever lived."*

The parents of David B. Anderson, J. Y. and Mahala Anderson were married in Perry County, Ohio and reared a family of six children, David B. being the third born. Upon moving to Iowa during the winter of an unknown year the J. Y. Anderson family camped out south of Jefferson, Iowa and prepared logs and built a hewed log house in the spring. (Iowa became the 29th state, December 28, 1846--the Anderson family moved to Iowa sometime after their sixth child was born I believe which would have been after 1846)

It is reported that David was the hunter in the family and supplied the game. At one time he found a large elk and having only five bullets which failed to bring down the stag he dug a bullet out of a tree which he had previously used in shooting at a target and brought the animal down.

At the age of 17 he married Eliza Miller, July 1, 1858. The first two children, Gideon and William born in 1860 and 1862 respectively were both dead by the time David entered the Civil War. On August 15, 1862 David enlisted in the 39th Regiment of the Iowa Infantry as a private in Company F. The papers David filed for a pension at the age of 82 revealed the following information concerning his military service. His personal description at age 22 revealed he was 5'8" tall had light complexion, blue eyes and dark hair. The rolls show him present except as follows: Aug. 31, 1864, absent, left at Rome, Ga. on duty; Oct. 31, 1864 absent on duty in Regimental Hospital as cook.

Medical records show him treated for Febris Typhoides, April 2-8, 1863 and Typhoid Dysenteria June 1-July 31, 1864.

The movement of the 39th Iowa Volunteer Infantry was as follows: The 39th Iowa Infantry went into camp in September, 1862. Drilled in Des Moines but not organized until late in the fall at Davenport. H.J.B. Cummings was Colonel. Sent south into Tennessee (at the time Grant was making plans to occupy the western third of the state and the network of railroads, and to move down the Mississippi and take the Confederate stronghold at Vicksburg,) the 39th was attached to brigades that fought against General Nathan B. Forrest. (Later well known for his leadership of the Confederate cavalry who had a definite hand in creating much confusion and disorganization in the Federal Army's rear, greatly delaying Grant and his movement toward Vicksburg.) One hundred men of the 39th were surprised and captured at Shady Grove and imprisoned for ten months. Early in 1863 the 39th Iowa was attached to the Third Brigade, commanded by Iowa Grenville M. Dodge. In 1863 the 39th was to Sherman's army. (Probably in time for the siege of Chattanooga in Nov. 1863 - they stayed with Sherman's forces as he planned to confront the Confederate Army under Joe Johnston, making it necessary to move into Georgia.) The 39th was attached to the forces of General John N. Corse and they took part in the defense of Allatoona Pass. Before that they were on guard duty until October in Rome, Ga. At Allatoona there were immense stores needed by Sherman's army. Union forces were out-numbered but were told by Sherman to "Hold on to Allatoona to the last, I will help you" Gen. Corse held on and Allatoona was saved. Seven hundred Union soldiers lost their lives there, the 39th numbering one hundred and sixty-five. This Allatoona story was the basis for the song, "Hold the Fort." After this battle the regiment moved to Savannah and then on to Washington where it was mustered out, June 5, 1865.*

*The story of the 39th (except for that in parenthesis which are mine) was taken from THE STORY OF IOWA, Vol. I, William J. Petersen, Lewis Historical Publishing Company, Inc. 1952, p. 480-481.

At age 24 David Anderson returned home to his wife and third child who was born during his absence.

In 1868 David and Eliza settled on 173 acres, Section 9, Kendrick Township, Scranton, Iowa. Seven more children were born, one of whom died before Eliza's death January 9, 1879. Three months later, April 1879, on Easter Sunday David married a widow, Anna Bradley Nesbitt with five children of her own. Three more children were born to this union making the family total: 14.

Politically David Anderson was a Republican and served as constable and as secretary of the school board. He was a member of the N.H. Powers Post No. 111 and G.A.R. at Scranton; also he was a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. In the early years he farmed putting in small crops. There was no modern machinery. David had a reaper and cut wheat and oats. The reaper dropped off the grain in bundles and older sons came along and made bands or twists of the grain and stood the bundles up to dry for stacking or threshing. The older sons hired out to other farmers for work and chopped wood to keep the homefires burning. It was said the David had a special dislike of getting up early — not too conducive to farming, however, it was also said he could do as much work in the day even though he got up later.

The Andersons were considered among the founders of the Scranton Friends Church.

MEMORIES OF DAVID ANDERSON INCLUDE THOSE OF:

Myrtle Emeline Anderson Kramer who recalls: The Indians used to camp by the old Miller bridge near our house and Dad would take us kids down to visit their camp. One time an old Indian came to the house when Dad was away and nearly frightened mother to death. He kept saying, "Me wants me traps." inferring that mother had them. When he saw she was pale with fright he said, "Ha, ha. Me scare white squaw." and left.

Dad had a team of horses. Bird and Biddie. They would poke along all the way to town and he had them trained so that when they reached the city limits up went their heads and to see them one would think they were running away. One night in mid-summer our big barn on the farm burned and Bird and Biddie, among other animals were burned.

I recall that we had family worship each morning and that we were always in Sunday School and church on Sunday. One of Dad's traits was when we had company to dinner he would say to Mother, "Mother, is this the butter the mouse drowned in the cream?" Or if he was saying something which Mother didn't like she would kick him under the table and Dad would say, "What are you kicking me for?"

Helen Joan Funk Bertus, daughter of Eliza Pearl Funk recalls: In 1913 when I was more than a year old Grandfather and Grandmother Anderson came West to visit (Hayden, Colorado). He 'proved up' on 160 acres of land the corner of which touched a corner of our ranch. Mother says that he would go down there to work and with homemade pancake mix in a cardboard box and other makings, fix pancakes over a bonfire fueled by the sage brush he was clearing. He loved pancakes and also cornmeal mush with milk which provided many a supper in those days. Grandfather taught me how to fry bacon. In a hot iron skillet turning it over and over again and watching so it would never scorch, but so it would cook evenly and thoroughly, but not too much; then take it up on a warm platter and set it on the warming oven while /7 excess fat drained off and eggs, if they were to accompany the bacon, could be prepared.

In 1919 we visited in Scranton. Grandfather would have been 78 years old then. He spent a great deal of time in a rocking chair on the front porch with a palm leaf fan and a fly swatter. There were gorgeous tiger lilies under a big elm tree beside the house. There was outdoor plumbing, but there was a sink with a pump in the kitchen and an icebox on the back porch. Grandmother had silver napkin clips on their napkins, big snowy squares of cotton or linen damask. Nearly everybody else had a napkin ring. Green shades rolled down at the windows and there was a portion of the front room windows which looked toward town that was inlaid with beautiful colored glass. They burned dry corn cobs, and cooking for the day was finished early so the heat of the stove would not add to the daytime heat. There was a small garden in the backyard. Concord grape vines climbed over wooden frames and "ground cherries" were made into jam. My little brother, Merwin, age three, could never remember to shut the front screen door quietly. The 'bang' always made Grandfather jump. When we left he said, "Come back, but leave that scalawag at home." Grandmother Anderson (Anna) always concerned about fit, was in her glory when all of us were there to "try on" things, and there was a great flurry of sewing. She was making me a silk dress out of another garment. I was sitting on the floor between fittings and a triangle of cloth about 1 1/2" by 3" fell down beside me. Idly I examined it and began to pull down threads on the slanting side. In a moment I had converted it to fringe. Grandmother was searching desperately for that piece. When she found what I had done she sat down with a pin and rewove the whole piece. It took all day--she never complained or gave me a dirty look. She was an excellent seamstress.

Vera Elizabeth Mills Haeger, daughter of Miranda Dyle Anderson recalls: Memories of Uncle Dave are inextricably interwoven with his tales of early day trapping, hunting, and fishing, which could have filled a book. He could embellish his stories making them of breathless interest. One story I recall told of a winter day when he was a young man. He was crossing a river on foot with a load of furs he had collected. In the middle of the stream the ice broke through and he went to the bottom. Under ice everything was pitch black. All he could see was a tiny pin-hole of light far up above. An excellent swimmer he soon reached that speck of light which proved to be the hole he had fallen through. He threw the furs out and then managed to climb out himself ending his story with a laugh and "I saved my furs." Uncle Dave was married twice. The second time to a widow with a family of her own. Thus three families grew up together! I leave it to you to unravel them!

From a newspaper clipping in 1954: 50 YEARS AGO, JANUARY 1, 1904
"Among the many Christmas dinners by Glidden people one of the happiest was that at the home of D.B. Anderson and wife. They have 53 children and grandchildren altogether and of these, 28 were present including the following gentlemen and their families: James P. Miller, J.W. Wilson, Alva Nesbitt, George Wilson, Harve Van Horn, David Anderson, Jr., and Douglas Smythe.

The Carroll post office has dreams of a stamp cancelling machine."

FOOTNOTE #2

Eliza Miller, first wife of David B. Anderson was born to J.P. Miller and Rachael Lane on a boat coming from England. Her father was the first doctor in Greene County, Iowa. He frequently rode 80 miles to visit his patients. Eliza had three sisters and one brother. The order of their births is unknown. You will see that two Anderson brothers; and a Nesbitt mother and daughter married into this Miller family.

FOOTNOTE #3

Anna (or Annie) Bradley Nesbitt Anderson* was born in Kingston, Canada. April 11, 1846. Her family was strict Presbyterian, observed Sunday, "to the letter." No work or big meals on Sunday. Bible reading was the chief occupation on Sunday. Her parents were William Bradley and Mary Jane Melville Bradley. Her brothers and sisters were:

Margaret Bradley McNeil
Joseph Bradley
Robert Bradley
Anna Bradley Nesbitt Anderson
Alexander Bradley
Mary Jane Bradley Lovejoy

Anna married in Kingston, Canada on November 2, 1864 to John James Nesbitt. That same year they moved to Butler County, Iowa, and later to Lexington, Roy County Missouri. John Nesbitt died May 10, 1874 and is buried in Missouri. Five children were born to this union. After John's death Anna moved with her five children to Jefferson, Iowa where she took in washings and sewing to support her children, an expert seamstress. Her five children were:

Melville LaVern Nesbitt
Etta L. Nesbitt
Alice May Nesbitt
Alva Ulick Nesbitt
Anna Belle Nesbitt

At the age of 33 she married David B. Anderson, April 13, 1879. It was said Anna was very pretty and wore long natural curls. Combining the two families produced a total of 11 children to look after. David and Anna lived on the 173 acre farm in Kendrick Twp. Greene County, Iowa. Anna washed on the board, baked their bread and made all their clothes; knit their stockings and mittens. No modern conveniences, so they carried their water from a well, burned cobs and wood for heat. The mattresses were of straw and cornhusks which had to be refilled after the oats were threshed. Straw was used under the tacked down rag carpets. Three children were born to this union making the family total 14 children, 2 adults.

THE OLD ANDERSON FARMHOUSE is still standing. The main change is that the road which used to run past the place east and west now runs north and south and a new bridge was built about a mile from the old Miller bridge. To reach the house today you take Hwy. 30 to Scranton, Iowa. Going west on 30 take the first right turn beyond Scranton to the north. You will come to the Friends Church first. Follow on northward - cross the Miller bridge. The farm is a mile along on the west side of the road. From the church take the road west which will bring you to Dillavou Cemetery about 1 mile.

The following pages contain the genealogy of the five Nesbitt children.

Mrs. J.W. Wilson, Longtime Resident of Fort Dodge, Dies (1952)

Mrs. Judson W. Wilson, 79, a well-known Fort Dodge resident, died Wednesday night at her home, 211 North Fourteenth Street, following a long illness.

Surviving her are her husband, who is bailiff for the Webster county district court; and a son, Edgar Wilson of Austin, Texas.

Two grandchildren, five sisters, Mrs. Etta Miller of Ralston, Ia., Mrs. Alice Van Horn of Rippey, Ia., Mrs. George R.D. Kramer of Fort Dodge, Mrs. Pearl Funk of San Anselmo, California., and Myra Thompson of Los Angeles, Calif; and one brother, Ross Anderson of Fairfield, Ia., also survive.

Her parents, two sisters and five brothers preceded her in death. Funeral services for Mrs. Wilson will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30 at the Wilder-Bruce funeral home. Dr. William T. Paden, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate.

Burial will be in North Lawn cemetery.

Mrs. Wilson, who was a member of the Friends church at Scranton, Ia., was an associate member of the First Presbyterian church of this city. She also belonged to the local W.C.T.U. organization.

Born Nov. 10, 1872, at Kansas City, Mo., she was the former Anna B. Nesbitt, daughter of the late Mr. & Mrs. John Nesbitt.

At the age of three she moved with her parents to Jefferson, Iowa. The whole family later moved to Scranton.

She was married on March 19, 1896, at Churdan, to Judson Wilson. The Wilsons observed their golden wedding anniversary in 1946.

Residing at Jefferson for a time following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson moved to Fort Dodge 28 years ago.

Mrs. Wilson had been in failing health for over a year. Her condition had been considered serious for the past several months.

Always active in church work, her church and her family were her chief interests. She was also extremely active in the W.C.T.U. organization, as long as her health permitted.

Mrs. Wilson belonged to Group E of the Women's association of the First Presbyterian church.

M Memories of Mabel Anderson Rhodes (October, 1966)

"When my parents were married they lived on a farm in Kansas until I was about two years old (1892). Then we moved to Marshalltown, Iowa where father learned the barber trade from a cousin, Marshall Anderson. Dad bought a barber shop in Churdan, Iowa and we lived there about six years, then we moved to Maxwell, Iowa where he bought a shop having sold the one in Maxwell. Cecil was born in Churdan, Nada in Maxwell. In 1903 we moved to Grand, Oklahoma where we stayed 13 months to prove up on a claim. Dad was gone most of the year working in my Uncle Norvies barber shop at Perry, Oklahoma. My maternal grandparents Henry Fitz and mother's sister, Maude Holloway, lived about three miles from us on their claims. Then we moved back to Maxwell, and Marshall and I graduated from high school there in 1909. I started teaching, first in Nevada, Iowa then at Christmas I changed and taught 5th and 6th in Scranton, Iowa. I lived at Grandpa Anderson's. The next fall I started to college in Cedar Falls, graduating in 1915. I taught art and penmanship in Jefferson until 1919, then moved to Cleveland, Ohio where I married. Dad died in 1918. After my divorce in 1929 I went to Europe for the summer and then moved to Des Moines where mother and I had an apartment. We both remarried in 1933, mother moved to Colorado.

Marshall never went on to college, but worked in Dad's barber shop and then opened a shop of his own near Maxwell; later he went into the Insurance business. He has married several times, but is staying in Florida with Nada now.

Cecil went one semester to Iowa State in Ames, but quit to become a barber after working for , and as a interior decorator for several years. Later he began working at the Weather Bureau at the airport in Des Moines, later transferred to Kansas City.

Nada attended Woman's College in Cleveland for two years and lived with me; then took up beauty work as she didn't want to teach. She had her own shop for years."

GENEALOGY OF THE STEEL FAMILY

Father Steel came to this country with King George's Army which was known at the time as "The Hessian Butchers" or King George's "Hirelings." Father Steel and his two brothers deserted the English Army, however, and went into the Colonial Army, swore allegiance to the American Colonies and entered the Army of Washington. After the Revolutionary War was over one of the brothers settled in Connecticut, one in Virginia, and one in Pennsylvania. The latter was Jacob, whose family descendants follow: (From the papers of Nelle F. Weaver Jenks)

BERNICE LUCILLE ANDERSON KENDALL

"Lyle and I were born near Ralston, Iowa in Greene County. Mother and Father were members of a small Friends Meeting there. When I was 4 or 5 yrs. old we moved to Coon Rapids. After Father died in 1920 we moved to Oskaloosa where Mother became employed at the college. I graduated from Penn Academy in 1922, the last Academy class, I believe, as college accreditation prohibited Academies after that. After graduation from Penn College in 1926 I taught at WhatCheer, Iowa for 1927-8, then at Friendsville Academy in Friendsville, Tennessee. In May of 1929 I went to Washington, D.C. where I worked at Friendship Settlement House. I worked there until 1935. In June 1942, Doug was given a direct commission of Captain in U.S.Air Force. He was transferred to Troop Carrier Headquarters at Indianapolis for three months, then to Austin to Bergstrom Air Force Base. In March 1943 he was transferred to Alliance, Nebraska, then to Sedalia A.F. Base." 35

" We lived in Warrensburg, Mo. until 1946 then we made three short moves, to Washington, D.C., to Colorado Springs, and to Salina Air Force Base in Kansas. In July, 1947, Doug went to Okinawa, Mary Lou and I followed in July, 1948. We all returned to the U.S. in July, 1949, just missing a very destructive typhoon which hit Okinawa about July 22. In June 1960 after being assigned to Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas, Doug flew to Brize Norton, England. We followed in early Sept. - sailing on the Queen Elizabeth. In 1953 we returned to the U.S. and Doug retired. We moved to Bucks County, Pa. which reminded us so much of England. I took a teaching position for the 2nd, 3rd and 4th grade which has kept me busy for these 13 years."

COL. KENDALL DEAD AT 70

Doylestown resident Lewis D. Kendall a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel who grew up with the nation's aerial defense program and served during three wars died at the age of 70 on Sunday in Valley Forge Military Hospital at Phoenixville. He lived at 612 S. Chubb Dr. in Doylestown.

Born in Drifton, Pa. the son of the late Charles and Mary Jones Kendall, he made an early aim at a military career, joining the Pennsylvania Hospital Medical Unit prior to U.S. entry into World War I. The unit was formed independently for the purpose of aiding the Allies on the Western Front.

The American declaration of war in April of 1917 made him one of the first Americans on French soil, arriving for duty with the British Expeditionary Force on May 17, 1917, prior to Gen. Pershing.

Leaving France in 1919, he received both British and French campaign decorations as well as U.S. awards for his share in the conflict.

He returned to military duty in 1929, enlisting in the old Army Air Corps as a ground crewman. During this period he made the acquaintance of young pilots who became America's leading World War II airmen, notably Generals "Toohey" Spaatz and H.H. "Hap" Arnold.

Given a direct commission in 1942, he served chiefly in the United States, setting up airfields and training young new recruits and officers, with brief service in England.

Following the war he saw duty in Okinawa and later England again, during the Korean conflict.

He retired in 1953.

He was a member of Albert Atkinson Post 210, American Legion, Doylestown; the Retired Officer's Association of Washington D.C. and the Drifton Episcopal Church.

ELIZA PEARL ANDERSON FUNK

"Pearl Anderson was born July 22, 1880 in Greene County, Scranton, Iowa and attended county schools in Greene County, (short school terms of three months duration) until about 1900 when we moved to Glidden to attend high school and summer school at Carroll, and received a certificate to teach county schools. After two years of teaching county schools we moved to Cedar Falls where we attended Iowa State Teacher's College.

Mother Anderson kept roomers and boarders ($2.35 per week) and Dad Anderson worked in a grocery store delivering groceries. Mother made all my college and graduating clothes.

In 1907 after graduating Mother and Dad moved to Maxwell, Iowa where Pearl taught primary and Myrtle taught 5th and 6th. In the fall of 1908 Pearl went to Central City, Nebraska where she taught Music in a little Quaker college, and in the fall of 1909 she went farther to Deming, New Mexico where she taught Music and Dramatics. From Deming she went to Hot Sulpher Springs Colorado (June, 1910) where she married James Funk, a teacher from Iowa. Together they took up a homestead North of Hayden Colorado. Together they taught and farmed in Routte County, and Pearl served as County Superintendent of Schools, effecting county-wide modernization of text books, a county choir, and mapping of the county and its schools, school districts, and organizing the teachers for exchange of ideas and inspiration.

Six children were born into this family and homely tasks for this large group were wedged into the busy schedule. They owned 320 acres in Routte Co. James Funk died in 1943, then Pearl moved to Boulder where she kept college girl roomers until 1943 when she moved to Caldwell, Idaho to keep house for her daughter Miriam, who was a professor of German languages in the Presbyterian College. From Caldwell she went to San Anselmo, California where Miriam had a fellowship to study Christian Education. Later she kepthouse for Jean Funk, her youngest daughter who was Dean of Women at Marysville, Calif. Later she went with Jean to Sacramento, where Jean was Dean of Women for the Sacramento schools. Jean married in 1959 and Pearl made her home with different children until her death in Orange, California at the home of her daughter Joan Bertus. Pearl was buried in Hayden, Colorado."

NOTE: This past year Pearl helped a great deal in the writing of this Geneology, trying to remember as many things as she could. Joan wrote them down and sent them on to me. KAS-

INFORMATION ON THE FUNK FAMILY

The Funk family first landed in America in 1709, refugees from religious persecution in Germany. During the American Revolution one Henry Funk braved the western wilds in Col. George Roger Clark's Army. From then on the trend was Westward.

My Grandfather Joseph Henry Funk went West along the Oregon trail all the way to McMinnville, Oregon, a beautiful area, where he contracted hauling; while working on his home-stead. He got blood poisoning and died leaving: James David age 5 years; Ann, age 3 years; and Joseph Guy age 1 and 1 half years. His wife, Nancy Keefer Funk made her was back along the Oregon trail to her father's home in Knoxville, Iowa. Grandfather Keefer often kept the children and Nancy would go out to cook.

James David Funk, first child of Joseph and Nancy moved with his family to Oregon from Marion County, Iowa via covered wagon. In 1888 Joseph the father died, and Nancy returned to Iowa with her three small children. James was soon enrolled in school in Knoxville, Iowa and made good marks. After graduating he attended Iowa State Teachers College in Cedar Falls, and while teaching managed to study Civil Engineering. He served in the National Guard from Iowa. After a stint of surveying for the Great Northern R.R. he returned to Iowa to teach. He met and married Pearl Anderson. Six children were born at their home in Hayden Colorado. He was awarded Honorary Life Certificates to teach in Colorado.

He planted the first orchard in Routte County and encouraged other pioneers to set out fruit trees. Having cleared the sagebrush from his fields, he practiced contour plowing, crop rotation, and summer fallowing. His engineering skills were employed as he laid out roads and bridges and with his neigbors built them.

He played clarinet in an early band. He sang in the choir and taught a Bible class in the community church.

Hon. Azor Ruggles Mills, Esquire

1827 - 1901

To say at the end of his long life, "all of which I saw" and "a part of which I was" tells in a sentence the life of Azor Mills.

A gentleman of classic old school tradition, -of great personal dignity, strong and decisive in character, he was qualified by nature and by education to be a leader.

During his boyhood in Ohio, he had attended Wadsworth Academy, and later Twinsburg Academy, an early Ohio boys school. Azor Mills, always of a searching mind, became inspired with a desire for knowledge.

In the 1850's, when he reached his early 20's, he followed the example of past generations of his fore-fathers and turned westward. His pioneering ventures first took him to Wisconsin, where he acquired lands around two thriving settlements, Portage and Janesville. He soon heard rumors of a new University to be opened in the frontier town of Madison. With his thirst for learning, he enrolled in the first class ever to register in Madison University.

After a few years in Wisconsin, a new territory just across the border beckoned with new opportunities.

Once more Azor journeyed westward. In the year 1854-55, at the age of 26 or 27, Azor Ruggles Mills, with youthful vigor and strength, came to the threshold of the new West - to Iowa, Beautiful Land.

What was happening in his generation was largely a repetition of what had taken place through the centuries from the time of his first ancestors in America, Azor was helping found a new commonwealth in a new Iowa - turning the rich virgin soil that had never before been turned in all the ages.

Azor Mills' mathematical knowledge enabled him to do his own surveying and with a natural ability to recognize good land, he acquired some of the most valuable acreages in Greene County, these included several tracts for which he paid a few dollars an acre to the government.

Besides his large home plot in Jefferson, near the village were his farms, and along old "Coon River" were his timber lands. One of these farms, a half square mile in size, watered by crystal clear Hardin Creek, winding across the fertile acres, lay a mile north of town. More than a half century later, newspapers all over the state, carried items of its unusual deed of transfer, which recorded but one sale, from the Government to Azor R. Mills.

In 1856-57, a number of families organized a "subscription school" the first ever taught in Greene County. Azor Mills, still in his 20's was asked to be the teacher. Thirty-two men were enrolled, some as old and older than the teacher.

When war threatened, he organized the entire school of 32 scholars, drilled them as a military school and all 32 of these pupils enlisted and went to the War. Throughout the war, this loyal band served heroically, Company E, 39th Iowa.

These Iowa boys helped hold the line in the bloody battle of Allatoona Pass near Rome, Georgia, when out of 1900 soldiers, 700 young martyrs fought their last battle. There were four bullet holes in his coat, hand to hand, steel to steel, Azor Mills laid an arm on his country's alter. Then, during the thick of the battle, one of the enemy climbed up over the parapet and took aim at Azor's heart. At that instant, Azor was drawing the ram rod from his gun; he lifted his arm and this alone saved his life. The bullet missed his heart, passing through the bone of his left arm. The same bullet lodged in the arm of James Smith, directly back of Azor. Neither of these men ever had the full use of their left arms again. They were life time citizens of old Jefferson, living out their days in veneration and respect.

At the end of the war Azor Mills returned home. His army wound which had not been too well cared for in the poorly equipped war hospital, was of such a nature that Azor was compelled to give up active pursuits of life, which his sturdy constitution had fitted him for, and he turned by natural taste and an exploring mind, to the realm of intellectual things. A great reader and thinker; a writer and speaker upon subjects of widely differing natures. Before going into Legislative work, he held the office of County Superintendant, developing high standards of efficiency in early Greene County schools. For many years, he served as a member of the State Legislature. In that day, the legislative district was comprised of Greene, Carroll, Audabon and Calhoun Counties. During one legislative session, he voted on an appropriation of $95,000, to build 'Main Building' of the new college at Ames. The first appropriation ever granted to the college. Azor always maintained an interest in Ames College and several years later, his six daughters graduated from there. Most of them lived in beautiful 'Old Main', which was then used as dormitory as well as classrooms. In a period of several years, one or two of the Mills girls were always in attendance there. Today Iowa State University has been attended by several of his grandchildren and at least one great grandchild.

Azor Mills had been one of the Charter members in organizing the Jefferson Methodist Church. His history of the church reposes in the 'corner stone'. For a number of years, he was the only surviving charter member and for more than 25 years, he taught the Adult Class of Men.

When he returned from the Civil War, in 1865, on July 25th, he married his pre-war sweetheart, the beautiful Miranda Dyle Anderson. Miranda had been barely 17 at the outbreak of the war. Their marriage was postponed out of consideration for his beloved young Dyle, feeling that war held hazards too grave to impose marriage before his return. All through those long years of conflict, they waited loyally for the cruel war to cease. A packet of their tender love letters, written while Azor was in army camp, and army hospital, are in the possession of Vera Mills Haeger, found stored away in the old desk in the attic when the old childhood home was dismantled.

MIRANDA DYLE ANDERSON MILLS

"Mother, a bride, how beautiful she was. The glow of rosebuds were on her cheeks. Her hair held satin overtones of gold that shone through the net snood, holding braided coils, low on her neck. Her deep blue eyes held a lustre like the sea where summer lies dreaming. She had a natural amiableness that endeared her to everyone. I have never known a lovelier disposition. I once asked her how she could always control her temper. She laughed and said, when she was a little girl, one of the mottos in her old fashioned copy book was 'No one has so perfect a disposition but that it can be improved'. She copied this so many times, she said it should have had some effect.

She was an ideal mother, to bring up her family of girls. She took perfect care of us, watching over our health, our manners, our morals. She set standards to be met by each of us. She instilled ideals that were upright and clean, unselfish and kind. She trained us in religious observance and devout little prayers. She was pious without being sanctimonious. I have never forgotten a talk mother had with me a short time before I was to be married. CONTINUED

She said, "our marriage vows that Edmond and I would make to each other were a solemn pledge we were to keep by Divine help as long as we both should live - a promise to share in cultivating sympathy and understanding and unselfishness in all the joys and sorrows of our every day life together, to give loving forgiveness when needed. She said, happiness in marriage does not just happen. It is something we must learn to create, knowing that in marriage the little things are the big things, having a sense of humor in little everyday incidents. One of the truest things in holding each others' affections is making room in our lives for the good and beautiful things of the spirit. This, she says is a slow process, and this culture of nobility of mind and heart, needs Divine help. But two people in love with each other will succeed, if they try.

I know Mother was speaking from her own experiences. She and father had created a family circle of love that held these principles of good living, not expecting perfection, but creating an atmosphere in which each member could grow in kindness and joy.

The last night of Father's life, as he lay on his death bed, with his sorrowful ones gathered about him, he spoke in his weakened voice to Mother, "Dylie, we have had our family altar through so many years, let us meet there once more." Then whispering the well known prayer for the last time, he commanded his dear ones to God's loving care.

Before morning, his brave spirit, courageously as he had lived, passed into eternity.

"Uncle Vet was like a second father to us. Never a Sunday afternoon that he didn't spend with us. We knew this family best of any cousins. His daughters were the belles of Jefferson, also called the 'Sweet Singers'. No doubt some of their vivacious talent inherited from Grandmother Mahala. They were the gracious charming leaders in the social life of Jefferson for many years." 1

"Uncle Vet was an agent for Farmer's Insurance. He drove an old white horse hitched to a single buggy thru the country. He often stayed overnight at David's farm. When he would leave in the morning he would give one of us kids a quarter. We felt like millionaires!"

Sylvester and Cornelia had four daughters and one son. All four girls are remembered for their beauty and lovely singing voices. Josephine was a redhead. She died when only 27 and was buried on the old homestead where she had been born and married. Not much information can be found on the location of the living family members today.

Family Group 6

Little or no information is available on William. It is known that he and his family lived in Jefferson, Iowa, and that the marriage seemed a bit rocky. At one point the twins almost came to live with David's family of 14. Jimmy did stay with them one time, and he had a terrible case of body lice. Nothing is known about the location of the twins. In 1908 Myrtle and Pearl saw Jimmy and his wife in the Northwest.

CHILDREN BORN TO THIS MARRIAGE:

- I. James Anderson
Lived in Washington or Oregon, he married and worked in lumber.
- II. Jessie Anderson (twin)
- III. Bessie Anderson (twin)
