INTRODUCTION

"The Hull Family in America" has three main divisions: George Hull and his descendants; his brother, the Reverend Joseph Hull and his descendants; and Richard Hull and his descendants.

George and Joseph were the sons of Thomas and Joane Peson Hull, of Somersetshire, England, the earliest known ancestors of the tribe. George was about five years older than Joseph and came to this country five years earlier, in 1630. The relationship of Richard Hull to them, if there is any, is not known. He was a native of Derbyshire, England and although four years younger than Joseph Hull came to this country before Joseph did, but the exact date of his arrival is not known.

The above "Introduction" is taken directly from the book. The following is self-explanatory.

The names preceded by an asterisk (*) are those which later appear with a biographical sketch. Ex:

- *2. Jeremiah Hull (first appears as a s/o Richard Hull)
- 2. Jeremiah Hull (biographical sketch)
- *11. Joseph Hull (first appears as a s/o Jeremiah Hull)
- 11. Joseph Hull (biographical sketch)
- *42. Benjamin Hull (first appears as a s/o Joseph Hull)
- 42. Benjamin Hull (biographical sketch)

For brevity, a few accepted abbreviations have been used;

b	born	dy	died young
ca	about	m	married
d	died	n.i.	married, had no
d/o	daughter of		children
dsp	died in adulthood, unmarried	s/o	son of

The dates have been re-arranged to read as follows: the day of the month, the month (all have only 3 letters), and the year. Ex:

Sept 18, 1830 - 18 Sep 1830

There are two indices. The index labelled "The Descendants of Richard Hull" shows all the names in the book (except those of people who died under 15 years of age) of Hull descent. The numbers following each name are the assigned numbers rather than page numbers.

The index labelled "Consorts" shows the names of people (preceded by their spouses assigned number) who married into the Hull Family.

Descendants of Richard Hull

1. Richard Hull, 3 Dec 1599 - 21 Aug 1662, colonist, free planter, and progenitor of a prominent New Haven branch of the Hull Clan in America was a native of Derbyshire, England. His exact arrival time in New England is unknown. He was a freeman of Mass. Bay Colony, Dorchester, 1634; a few months later at Roxbury. In 1636 he sold his Roxbury house to one Philip Sherman and removed to Boston. In 1639 he was at New Haven and there ended his wanderings, becoming one of that settlement's recognized founders and permanent citizens. The ancient records show that on joining the New Haven Company, he promptly signed the "Fundamental Agreement", was received into the church, and thereby became a full-fledged member of the select body which constituted the initial General Court.

On 29 Oct 1639, this General Court formally organized the government of the "New Haven Plantation" by electing from their number a Chief Magistrate, four assistant Magistrates, a Marshall, a Notary, and several other officers. It is a matter of record that at this early date the residence of Richard Hull was on Chapel St., that he was assigned a prominent sitting in the new church and that his family consisted of four persons.

The reports of a session of the General Court held in 1649 show that on one occasion that year, when Richard Hull was serving as "Master of the Watch" two sentries who had "disobeyed his orders and grossly neglected duty" were ordered whipped. At another session of the court, same year, a record shows "Richard Hull, because his son, Jeremiah, wanted a worm and scourer"(at an inspection of the Train Band) "was fined twelve cents."

The inventory of Richard Hull's personal estate, 6 Jan 1662, shows he had died possessed of goods and chattels valued at one hundred pounds, eighteen shillings and four pence.

2. Jeremiah Hull, ---1700, New Haven, Ct., oldest s/o (1) Richard Hull, colonist; m 6 May 1658, Hannah Baldwin of Milford, Ct., d/o Joseph and Hannah (____) Baldwin. Jeremiah Hull was a member of the Train Band of New Haven in 1649 and must have been at that time not less than 16 years of age. He does not appear to have taken an active part in the political or religious life of New Haven and the next item of interest relating to him, found in the ancient records, is a copy of his will executed 10 Jun 1700, three days previous to his death.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JEREMIAH HULL

In the name of God, Amen. I, Jeremiah Hull, of New Haven, being weak and sick of body, but of sound and perfect mind and memory, praise therefore is given to the Almighty God, do make this my last will & testament in manner and form following, that is to say --- such temporal estates as it hath pleased Almighty God to bestow upon me, I give and dispose of as follows:

My third division lot being twenty four acres lying on the west side of the town, adjoining Mr. Harriman's lot, to him his heirs and assigns forever.

My will is that my son Joseph shall have ye use of same on condition that he doth comfortably & honorably maintain my present wife during her natural life and be at charges of her honorable burial at her decease, in case my sd. son survives her and then my will is that what personal estate remains shall be thus distributed viz:

Twenty shillings a piece to be paid to my two daughters, Mary Hotchkiss and Sarah Chidsey, and the remainder to be equally divided between my son, Joseph, and my daughter, Martha Hull, and I do desire to appoint my son Joseph Hull sole executor of this my last will and testament.

It is noticed that Jeremiah Hull uses term "my present wife" which creates the impression his first wife, Hannah Baldwin, died several years before drawing up the will and that he had re-married. Note that three of his children (Jeremiah, Hannah, Elizabeth) are not mentioned in this will - might indicate that they had died (without issue) previous to date of execution of the will.

390. Lt. Joseph Hull, 1750-1825, farmer, Revolutionary War soldier and mariner, s/o (182) Capt. Joseph and Eliza Clark Hull; m1st; Sarah Bennett, d/o David Bennett; m 2nd Widow Nichols, mother of Rev. Charles Nichols; m 3rd, Lucy Smith, 1754-1817, widow of the elder Joseph Wheeler.

The following is condensed from an interesting sketch of his life given in Mrs. Puella Follett Hull Mason's book:

"Lieut. Joseph Hull, born at Derby, Ct., entered the Continental Army and, in 1776, was commissioned lieutenant of the Artillery. Before the end of the year he was captured by the British when Ft. Washington, at the mouth of the Hudson, fell into their hands. He was held prisoner until 1778. In 1779, he commanded a flotilla on Long Island Sound which consisted of several old whale boats which had been fitted out with the purpose of annoying the enemy as opportunity offered.

With one of the old whale boats Hull surprised, boarded and captured an armed British schooner which lay at anchor in the Sound, and forcing her defenders below, fastened the hatches, hoisted her anchors and sailed her in triumph to Derby."

After the War he was engaged, for a considerable period, in whale-fishing in the Sound in open boats, and was noted for his skill and presence of mind.

391. General William Hull, 1753-1825, s/o (182), Capt. Joseph and Eliza Clark Hull, m 1781, Sarah Fuller, 1759-1826, d/o Judge Abraham and Sarah Dyer Fuller, of Newton, Mass. He was born at Derby, Ct. and graduated at Yale in 1772. He then began the study of divinity, but at the end of one year entered the Litchfield, Ct. Law School and in 1775 he was admitted to the bar. Before he had fairly begun the practice of his chosen profession, news of the clash of arms at Lexington, caused him to enter the military service of his country. The young men of his home town of Derby were speedily organized into a military company of which he was chosen and commissioned Captain, and he was soon in the field. At the beginning of his military career he was recognized as an able and courageous officer and on 1 Jan 1776 he was promoted to a Captaincy in the 19th Continental Infantry. Just one year later he became Major in the 8th Mass. and on 12 Aug 1779 was promoted to Lt. Col. of the 3rd Mass.- both regiments of the Line.

He led an attack of 300 volunteers at Saratoga, commanded the right column of General Wayne's assaulting forces at Stony Point, and planned and took a leading part in the execution of the movement against Morrisania for which Congress tendered him a note of thanks. He early gained and held throughout his seven years service in the Revolutionary War the confidence and respect of his superior officers. Gen. Wayne regarded him as a born leader who could be trusted in any emergency. Gen. Steuben, under whom he served as Assistant Inspector of the Army, bore testimony to his superior ability as an organizer; and the Commander-in-Chief declared he was an officer of great merit whose services had been honorable to himself and profitable to his country. When the Army was disbanded at the end of the war he was selected by Washington as Lt. Col. of the one regiment retained in the service and stationed at West Point.

In 1786 he retired from the Army and engaged in law practice at Newton, Mass. In January 1787 he acted as a volunteer aid to General Lincoln in the suppression of Shay's Rebellion. In 1793, he was appointed a Commissioner to make a treaty with the Indians in the Northwest. In 1798 he visited England and France and witnessed in Paris many of the thrilling scenes of the First Revolution. On his return to New England he was appointed by the Governor of Mass, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Middlesex Co. and was elected and commissioned Major General of the Third Division of the Massachusetts Militia. He was a Senator in the State Legislature from 1798-1805, when he resigned, to accept (from President Thomas Jefferson) the appointment of Governor of Michigan Territory and moved with his family to Detroit.

In Feb 1812, war with England being imminent, and several tribes of frontier Indians showing unmistakable signs of hostility, three hundred men of the Fourth U.S. Infantry, with about twelve hundred volunteers, most of whom were citizens of Ohio, were ordered to Detroit, then the most advanced western post. Gov. Hull being in Washington at the time, was offered command of these troops, which he declined. The officer then designated being taken sick, he finally consented to accept the appointment with the sole object of protecting the inhabitants of the Territory over which he presided, against the Indians. Gov. Hull opened a military road through the wilderness two hundred miles in extent, over which he marched from Ohio to Detroit. Upon arrival there he was ordered to invade Canada with a force wholly inadequate and absolutely unsupported by any naval power or land force whatever, notwithstanding the fact that the government had promised him all necessary assistance. The campaign was a failure, Detroit was lost, and for political reasons solely Governor Hull was deliberately made the scapegoat of those responsible for the disaster. The tactics pursued at his trial and conviction were not unlike those adopted in the recent trial in France of Major Dreyfuss. It was not until 1824, ten years afterward, that General Hull was able to procure from the War Department, copies of documents necessary for his vindication. For a full account of which see "Memoirs of the Campaign of 1812", which he published in 1825; "The Military and Civil Life of General Hull", by his daughter Mrs. Campbell, and his grandson James F. Clarke, published in 1848; and the pamphlet entitled "General William Hull of the Revolution and the Capitulation of Detroit", compiled by Gen. Joseph Wheeler, his grandson, and sent out by the Hull Family Association in 1906. The unbiased reader of these works and of the "Report of the Trial of General Hull" published by Eastburn, Kirk and Co., in 1814, must reach the inevitable conclusion that if Gen. Hull was guilty of cowardice in the surrender of Detroit in 1812, then Washington was guilty of cowardice in the surrender of Fort Necessity in 1754, and General Lee was guilty of cowardice in the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox in 1865, all of which are equally preposterous.

General Hull passed his last days on the farm of his wife near Newton, Mass. The "Memoirs of the Campaign of 1812", which he gave to the press in 1824, reversed to a great extent the unjust judgement created and so long held against him. In 1825 a public dinner, intended to emphasize that fact, was given him by the leading men of Boston. The same year he visited his native town, Derby, where he was received with marked attention, but the fatigues of that journey, after the long strain to which he had been subjected, brought on an illness which proved fatal, and speedily ended his remarkable and honorable career.

782. Commodore Isaac Hull, 1773-1843, of Derby, Ct., s/o (390) Lt. Joseph Hull; m 1813, Anna M. Hart of Saybrook, Ct. At an early age he exhibited a great fondness for everything connected with the sea, and at age 14 entered the merchant service as a cabin boy and before he was 21, he commanded a ship sailing to the West Indies. Entering the U.S. Navy as a Lt., 1798, he served under Commodore Nicholson. In 1800, while a first Lt. of the frigate Constitution, he led a party which "cut out a French letter -of- marque" from under the guns of a battery at Port Platte St. Domingo. In the War with Tripoli, 1802-5, he won lasting renown in command of the schooner Nautilus and the brig Argus serving in the squadron of Preble and Baron, and greatly aiding General Eaton in the capture of Derne. In 1806 he was made Captain. In 1812, being in command of the Constitution, he was met in mid-ocean by a British squadron of seven armed vessels, which chased him three days but by his superior seamanship he succeeded in eluding them much to the chagrin and amazement of the pursuers.

The public notice taken of this affair and praises bestowed on Capt. Hull, induced him on reaching Boston, to insert the following card in the books of the Exchange Coffee House:

"Capt. Hull, finding that his friends in Boston are correctly informed of his situation when chased by the British squadron off New York, and that they are good enough to give him more credit for having escaped it than he ought to claim, takes this opportunity of requesting them to transfer their good wishes to Lt. Morris and the brave officers, and the crew under his command, for the very great exertions and prompt attention to his orders, while the enemy was in chase. Capt. Hull has great pleasure in saying that notwithstanding the length of the chase, and the officers and crew being deprived of sleep, and allowed but little refreshment during the time not a murmur was heard to escape them."

On 19 Aug 1812, about one month after the escape above mentioned Capt. Hull, with the same vessel, the same officers and crew fell in with a large frigate rated at 38 guns, but carrying 50 which proved to be His Majesty's Ship Guerriere commanded by J.R. Dacres. What happened on this occasion can best be told in Capt. Hull's own words:

United States frigate Constitution off Boston Light, 30 Aug 1812

Sir: I have the honor to inform you, that on the 19th instant, at two P.M., being in latitude 41,42 and longitude 55,48, with the Constitution under my command, a sail was discovered from the mast-head bearing E by S or ESE, but at such a distance we could not tell what she was. All sail was instantly made in chase and soon found we came up with her. At three P.M., we could plainly see that she was a ship on the starboard tack, under easy sail, close on a wind; at half past three P.M. made her out to be a frigate; continued the chase until we were within about three miles, then I ordered the light sails to be taken in, the courses hauled up, and the ship cleared for action. At this time the chase had backed his main-top-sail, waiting for us to come down. As soon as the Constitution was ready for action, I bore down with the intention to bring him to close action immediately; but upon our coming within gun shot, she gave us a broadside, and filled away, and wore, giving us a broadside on the other tack, but without effect; her shot falling short. She continued wearing and maneuvering for about 3/4 hour to get a raking position, but finding she could not, she bore up and ran under her top-sails and jib, with the wind in the quarter. I immediately made sail to bring the ship up with her, and five minutes before six P.M., being alongside within half pistol shot, we commenced a heavy fire from all our guns, double shotted with round and grape, and so well directed were they and so warmly kept up that in fifteen minutes his mizzenmast went by the board, his main yard in the slings and the hull rigging and sails very much torn to pieces. In fifteen minutes his main-mast and fore-mast went, taking with them every spar excepting the bowsprit. On seeing this we ceased firing, so that in thirty minutes after we got fairly alongside the enemy surrendered, and had not a spar standing, and her hull below and above water so shattered, that a few more broadsides must certainly have carried her down.

After informing you that so fine a ship as the Guerriere, commanded by an able and experienced officer, had been totally dismasted, and otherwise cut to pieces so as not to make her worth towing into port, in the short space of thirty minutes, you can have no doubt of the gallantry and good conduct of the officers and ships company I have the honor to command. It only remains with me to assure you, that they all fought with great bravery; and it gives me great pleasure to say, that from the smallest boy in the ship to the oldest seaman, not a look of fear was seen. They all went into action giving three cheers and requesting to be laid close alongside the enemy.

Enclosed I have the honor to send you a list of the killed and wounded on board the Constitution, and a report of the damages she has sustained; also a list of the killed and wounded on board the enemy, with his quarter bill, etc.

I have the honor to be with great respect, Sir, your obedient servant,

Isaac Hull

To Honorable Paul Hamilton, Esq.

790. Capt. Abraham Fuller Hull, U.S.Army, 1786-1814, only s/o (391) General William and Sarah Fuller Hull, graduated from Harvard in 1805, and at the outbreak of the second war with England he secured a captaincy in the 23rd Infantry, his commission bearing the date 14 Apr 1812. He was detailed to serve on the staff of his father, marched with the Army from Dayton to Detroit, and was present at the surrender. On 15 Apr 1813, he was transferred to the 9th Infantry which in the campaign of 1814 formed a part of General Winfield Scott's brigade, and was killed in the Battle of Lundy's Lane. For years his grave was marked by a neat wooden slab:

"Erected by his brother officers to mark the spot where Capt. Hull, U.S. Army, fell in the memorable action of Lundy's Lane on 25 Jul 1814, gallantly leading his men to the charge." This marker was not allowed to decay before a marble slab was substituted with suitable ceremonies, and this in turn removed to give place to a plain but massive granite monument.

The Buffalo Enquirer of 28 Sep 1907 contains the following:

"In the beautiful little cemetery of Drummondville, which is part of the memorable battlefield of Lundy's Lane, about 1½ miles up the hill from the west of Niagara Falls, Ontario, a huge block of granite was unveiled at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by members of the Niagara Frontier Landmarks Association in the presence of many patriotic Americans and more Canadians. There is nothing imposing in the monument that was unveiled. It is not a shaft of dazzling white, with magnificent settings at the base, but just a block of rough granite, typical of the character and roughness of the American soldier of the War of 1812, who faced twice their number of British enemies and covered themselves with imperishable fame and victory at a cost of much life and blood. The block was erected to perpetuate the spot where Capt. Abraham F. Hull and nine soldiers of the 9th Regt., U.S. Infantry, fell in the Battle of Lundy's Lane on 25 Jul 1814. Capt. Hull's body was buried a few rods from where he fell in the thickest of the fray....Secretary Emerson's address was listened to with deep interest by those present. He spoke as follows: "In these graves are the remains of ten men who on the morning of the 25th of Jul 1814 went forth in the fullness of their manhood and in the evening were cut down. One of these was Capt. Abraham Fuller Hull of the 9th Regt. Infantry, U.S.Army. He was killed on the night of 25 Jul 1814, and the following letter written by a British officer gives us many particulars which may be of interest to-day:

Chillicothe, Ohio, 7 Oct 1814

"Sir: Having been informed since I was brought to this place that you are a relative of the late Capt. Hull who fell on 25 Jul last, at the Battle of Lundy's Lane, and that you remain in anxious suspense to know whether he fell on the field or made a prisoner.

I was in the action and purely to relieve yourself and other relatives of that gallant officer, take the liberty to inform you that early in the morning after the battle the body of an officer lying on the field of action was shown to me which I was told was the body of Capt. Abraham Hull, and that his commission had been found on his body. He was buried in the churchyard at Lundy's Lane, under an oak tree, within a few rods of where he was killed. Capt. Hull fell in a charge just at the conclusion of the action. He was bayoneted through the body and laid among the rails of the fence of Lundy's Lane, which had been thrown down during the engagement, to enable the troops to act. His body was laid in a line with 5 American soldiers who also lay among the rails and who likewise were killed by the bayonet.

There was not an officer or soldier in the American Army who fell in the field in front of them."

791. Ann Binney Hull, 1787-1847, d/o (391) General William and Sarah Fuller Hull; m 1808, Capt. Harris Hampden Hickman of the U.S. Army whose military record reads as follows:
"Commissioned Capt. 19th Infantry 12 Mar 1812; transferred to 17th Infantry 12 May 1814; honorably discharged 15 Jun 1815."

1591. General Joseph Wheeler, 1836-1906, soldier, statesman, author, s/o Joseph and (794) Julia Knox Hull Wheeler; m 8 Feb 1866, Donella Jones Sherwood, 1841-1896.

The following history of his remarkable career was prepared by his nephew and ardent admirer, Sterling S. Smith, Esq.:

"Wheeler, Joseph, soldier and statesman, youngest son of Joseph and Julia Hull Wheeler, was born at Augusta, Ga 10 Sep 1836. At the age of 26 he had become a distinguished army corps commander, won world-wide fame as a brilliant and successful general of cavalry and had been honored by a resolution enacted by the Confederate Congress thanking him for his gallantry and skill in battle."

A. work by Rev. E.E. Burford and Col. William S. Hawkins, published in 1865 says:

"General Wheeler bore a prominent part in the great battles of Shiloh, Farmington, the fights around Corinth, the battles of Perryville, Murfreesboro, Tullahoma, and Chickamauga, the battles preceding and incident to the siege of Knoxville, the battles of Ringgold, Rocky Face, Dalton, Resaca, Adairsville, Cassville, New Hope, Dallas, Pickett's Mill, the various battles around Kenesaw Mountain, the battles of Peach Tree Creek, Chatahoochee, and Decatur, the battles around Atlanta, the siege of Savannah, and the battles of Averysboro and Bentonville. Besides engaging in these great battles, and being under fire in over 400 skirmishes, General Wheeler has commanded in more than a hundred battles, many of which, considering the number engaged, were the most severe recorded in the history of cavalry. Always in the front in battle, he was wounded three times, 16 horses were shot from under him, 8 of his staff officers killed and 32 wounded. From 1861, to the surrender in 1865, rising from lieutenant to Lt-General, brave, skillful, enduring, and full of energy and dash, it was to him four years of work, adventure, romance and heroism."

This remarkable military career was followed by ten elections to the United States Congress, and his able speeches and valuable service, during the nearly 24 years in that body, his recent gallant services as Major-General in the Army of the United States, commanding at the battle of Las Guasimas, the first victory in the Cuban War, and his eminent and brave conduct in the battles of San Juan and Santiago, and later his service in the Philippines against Aguinaldo in 1899 mark his a unique and interesting character in American history.

WHEELER ANCESTORS

His first Wheeler ancestor in America was Moses Wheeler born in Kent Co., England, 5 Jan 1598.

This Moses Wheeler and Richard Hull b 1599, John Fuller born 1611, Nicholas Smith b 1631, Thomas Dyer b 1612, Peter Johnson, b 1608, Edward Wooster b about 1621, Edward Riggs b 1585, John Jackson b 1602, Edward Jackson b 1604, Francis Nichols born 1595, Edward Biscoe b 1595, Thomas White b 1599, William Peck b 1601, Thomas Clark b 1599, William Parker b 1618, Gregory Baxter d 1659, Thomas Battlestone d 1640, Andrew Ward b about 1600, and John Newdigate b 1580, were all American ancestors of General Wheeler, and were among the earliest and most substantial settlers of Boston, Newton and Roxbury, Mass., and of Stratford, New Haven, Derby, Fairfield and Wallingford, Ct. having settled in those localities prior to the year 1640.

The ancestors of some of these early settlers had preserved family records for several centuries. John Newdigate claimed through his great grandfather, Sir William Newdigate born in 1485, to be the seventeenth in descent from Sir John de Newdigate, time of King John. The mother of John Newdigate was Joanne, daughter of Gualther de Hoo, of Suffolk, England who died in 1588 and was a large landholder and of a famous English family. He claimed descent in the thirteenth generation from Sir Robert Hoo, knt., who died in 1,000. This Gualther de Hoo was seventh in descent from Sir Robert Hoo, who marr. Beatrix, d/o Alexander, Earl of Andeville, in Normandy who d in 1310.

Lord Thomas Hoo d 1455, was fifth in descent from this same Robert Hoo. His daughter, Anne b 1425, married Goeffrey Boleyn, and their great grand daughter, Anne Boleyn, married Henry VIII and was the mother of Queen Elizabeth.

This Goeffrey Boleyn was also the ancestor of Lord Nelson, Viscount of the Nile; Lord Hundson, the Earl of Kimberly, and Lord Wodehouse.

Andrew Ward claimed descent through many generations from Osbert de Warde. His wife, Esther Sherman, was a great-great-grand daughter of Thomas Sherman who died in 1564. Andrew Ward's father, Sir Richard Ward married Annie, daughter of Sir Richard Gunville and through them the Ward family claimed descent from Sir Richard Capel, Sir John Hare, Lord Neville, Sir John Arundel and Sir William Lumley, all of whose families have very ancient records.

After attending local schools and the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire, Ct. Joseph Wheeler entered the Military Academy at West Point where he was graduated in 1859. He was promoted to Lieutenant, U.S. Army, in the cavalry arm of the service, and his first duty was at the school for cavalry practice at Carlisle, Pa. He then served in Kansas and New Mexico in several scouting expeditions against the Indians. On 27 Feb 1861, he resigned his commission as an officer in the U. S. Army, and on April 3, was appointed a first lieutenant of Artillery in the Confederate Army.

DISTINGUISHED AT SHILOH

Notwithstanding his youth, being but twenty four years of age, and his still more youthful appearance he soon earned the confidence and respect of his commanders and on 4 Sep 1861, was commissioned a Colonel in the 19th Alabama Infantry. He commanded a brigade at the battle of Shiloh, April 6 and 7, 1862, and was pre-eminently distinguished from the first to the end of the battle. General Bragg complimented his skillful manœuvres and determined gallantry, which very largely contributed to the capture of Major-General Prentiss and his division together with much of the division of Major-General Wallace. General Bragg, in his official report, spoke of "the noble service of Colonel Joseph Wheeler" and by his order Wheeler was designated to command the rear guard when at the close of the second day's fighting, the Confederate Army retired from the field.

This bloody battle was the commencement of the very brilliant career of this brave young officer. The work before referred to by the Rev. E. S. Burford and Colonel Hawkins closes with the following summary of General Wheeler's military operation;

"General Wheeler was often called upon to engage forces many times his superior, in order to retard the enemy while covering retreats, or to create a diversion while important movements were carried on in other localities. Operations of this character, which are the most difficult the service presents, were conducted by General Wheeler with such skill that he invariably accomplished the desired object. As a commander of the cavalry of the Army, General Wheeler has been more successful than any other cavalry officer in the Confederate Armies. In no instance, has any army met a reverse or been otherwise than successful in its undertakings while he commanded the cavalry of that army. The only disasters which were visited upon the Army of Tennessee occurred during his absence upon other duty.

"When General Grant assaulted General Bragg on Missionary Ridge, Wheeler was with Longstreet at Knoxville, but he reached our army in time to cover the retreat, check the advance of Grant's victorious columns and engage in our victory at Ringgold Gap. When Atlanta was wrested from us, Wheeler was raiding in Tennessee, and during Hood's disastrous campaign in Tennessee Wheeler was fighting Sherman in Georgia. At Perryville, Murfreesboro, Chickamauga and the movements and fighting incident thereto, and during Johnston's brilliant battles from Dalton to Atlanta, General Wheeler commanded the cavalry and by his skillful management contributed much to the success of our army.

"General Wheeler's raid in the rear of the Federal Army incident to the battle of Murfreesboro, his immediate crossing of the Tennessee river after the battle of Chickamauga, in the face of superior numbers of the enemy, under the famous Federal General George Crook; his attack and defeat of that officer, and the capture and destruction of Rosencranz's wagon trains of more than a thousand wagons loaded with the ordnance and commissary supplies, and the capture and destruction of his depots and military stores were marvellous feats of chivalric daring and skill."

And in brilliancy, boldness, skill, and energy, few military achievements equal General Wheeler's great victory of July 1864, in which he utterly routed and defeated a column of Sherman's cavalry, ten thousand strong, commanded by Generals McCook, Stoneham, and Garrard. The official reports of Generals Chalmers, Withers and Bragg speak in the highest terms of his gallantry at Shiloh. Polk's, Kirby Smith's and Bragg's reports speak of his very distinguished service at Perryville and the Kentucky campaign; Bragg and Jefferson Davis of his services at Murfreesboro and Chickamauga; Generals Hood, Johnston and Hardee and President Davis of his operations in the many battles in the Georgia and Carolina campaigns.

General Basil W. Stone's "History of Morgan's Command," pages 344 and 345 says:

"General Wheeler possessed, in an eminent degree, all the attributes of a gentleman. He was as brave as a Paladin, just, high-toned, and exceedingly courteous, full of fire and enterprise, vigilant and energetic, and thoroughly instructed in all the duties of his profession and perfectly conversant with the elaborate details of organization and military business."

General Duke also speaks of "His eminent fitness as the commander of a large body of cavalry, permanently attached to the army."

And General Robert E. Lee in speaking of the most-noted commander said:

"The two ablest cavalry officers which the war developed were General Stuart of Virginia and General Joseph Wheeler of the Army of Tennessee."

In 1866 General Wheeler married Damella, a daughter of Richard Jones, whose father, Harrison Jones, was wounded, losing a leg at the battle of Guilford Court House. Her mother was a daughter of Governor Early of Georgia who came from an Irish family of very distinguished lineage.

Ebenezer Adams, Richard Cocke, Matthew Edloe and Francis Smith, all of whom were among the first settlers in Virginia, were also her ancestors. Mrs. Wheeler died 19 May 1896 leaving two sons, Joseph and Thomas, and four daughters, Lucy, Annie Early, Julia Knox and Carrie Payton. Thomas served as a midshipman, USN, in the Santiago Squadron during the Cuban War and was drowned 7 Sep 1898 in an attempt to rescue a brother officer. Joseph, a graduate of West Point, was distinguished in the battles of San Juan and Santiago in the Spanish War, and afterwards, as a Major, he won distinction in the twenty battles or other engagements in the Philippines and is now a Captain of the Artillery. Annie Early was a volunteer with Clara Barton, and distinguished herself by organizing, equipping and superintending the Yacht Club Hospital at Santiago, Cuba during July, August and September, 1898.

General Wheeler's career, since 1865, is briefly told in the register of the military academy by Major General Callum, U.S. Army, edition of 1900, page 114:

BRIGADIER-GENERAL, U. S. ARMY, REGULAR

16 June 1900

In command of the Department of the Lakes at Chicago, Ill.
from 18 June 1900.

General William T. Sherman was very emphatic in commending General Wheeler's high qualities and often repeated: "In the event of war with a foreign country, General Joseph Wheeler is the man to command the cavalry of our Army."

President Roosevelt is warm in praise of General Wheeler's services in Cuba, and gives him credit for much of our success in that campaign and especially for his bold and determined stand against retreating from San Juan Hill. In his history of the Rough Rider Regiment which he commanded in Cuba, Pres. Roosevelt, in speaking of the events on the night of the battle of San Juan, 1 Jul 1898, says:

"A very few words from General Wheeler reassured us about retiring. He had been through too much heavy fighting in the Civil War to regard the present fight as very serious, and told us not to be under any apprehension, for he had sent word there was no need whatever of retiring, and was sure we could stay where we were until the chance came to advance. He was second in command, and to him more than any other man was due the prompt abandonment of the plan to fall back - a proposal which, if adopted, would have meant shame and disaster. Shortly afterward General Wheeler sent us orders to entrench."

In speaking of the fighting of Las Guasimas in which General Wheeler commanded, President Roosevelt said:

"General Wheeler was in command ashore; he was told to get in touch with the enemy and, being a man with 'the fighting edge', this meant he was certain to fight. No general who was worth his salt would have failed to fight under such conditions; the only question would be as to how the fight was to be made. War means fighting; and the soldier's cardinal sin is timidity. General Wheeler remained throughout steadfast against any retreat from before Santiago."

General Shafter's order to the Santiago Army, dated 4 Jul 1898 upon the battle of San Juan says:

"To Major-Gen. Wheeler, of the Cavalry Division, was probably given the most difficult task, that of crossing a stream under fire, and deploying under the enemy's rifle pits. These ...

he almost immediately charged in a most gallant manner, driving the enemy from his strong positions to the shelter of the stronger works in the rear. This was only accomplished by the most persevering and arduous efforts, officers and men exposing themselves to the deadly fire of the Spanish troops!"

General Kent's official report of the San Juan battle says: "I declare, in conclusion, to express my gratitude to Major General Wheeler for his courteous conduct to me, and through me to my division, under the trying circumstances enumerated. Though ill and suffering, General Wheeler was so perfectly at home under fire that we were all inspired by his courage."

General Wheeler retired from the U.S. Army, due to age, in Sep 1900. He visited Europe in 1902 and was enthusiastically received in England and France; witnessed the maneuvers of the French Army, and visited the battlefield of Waterloo. On his return to this country he was entertained by posts of the G. A. R. from Maine to California.

He was stricken with pleuro-pneumonia on 18 Jan 1906, at the home of his sister Lucy, Mrs. Sterling Smith, in Brooklyn, NY and died there Jan 25th. On Sunday, 29 Jan, his remains were escorted by U.S. troops and N.Y.S. Cavalry and Infantry troops from Brooklyn to St. Thomas Church, Fifth Ave., NYC where services were held, and from there to the Pennsylvania R.R. Station. A second military funeral was held at St. John's Church, Washington, the next day, at which President Roosevelt was present; and the escort from there to Arlington Cemetery was composed of U.S. troops and a large delegation of Wheeler's Confederate Cavalry horses for which were furnished by the U.S. government. There he was buried amidst the booming of cannon, surrounded by the veterans of the North and South, a united people, the bonds between which he did so much to cement.

A handsome monument has been erected at Arlington by his son, Major Joseph Wheeler, U.S. Army, and his four daughters;
