Preface

I have been doing genealogy for around 30 years, and have recently embarked on the task of updating work that I'd started many years ago. One major flaw in earlier books and web pages that I have done is that although general sources were cited they not include footnotes for each fact. In this edition, I have striven to provide the source for every fact.

The internet is both a blessing and a curse for those seeking to understand their family roots. The amount of information available online is astounding and provides a very convenient way to do research. However, there is a lot of misinformation as well. The ease of copying information has also meant that errors have been copied over and over. One of the reasons for wanting to publish my research is to dispel misinformation, which has persisted for many years.

I have decided to organize this book in "Ahnentafel" format. This means that, rather than including chapters on various surnames, each "chapter" is about one family (husband and wife with a list of their children), with links forward and backward in time. The numbering system is explained at: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ahnentafel

The book begins with my great-grandmother, Lucia Hull (Fish) Neely, with successive sections going backwards in time. I intend to publish, at a later time, a book on her husband, Charles G. Neely.

At this time, I have not included the earliest generations mostly because I have not done original research on those, and information on the earliest settlers of New England is readily available elsewhere. I consider this book to be a work in progress. I encourage people who may have corrections or additional information to contact me, and I will incorporate changes in future editions. However, please realize that I will need reliable sources for every fact.

Lucia Hull Fish (1)

Lucia Hull Fish was born April 14, 1859, in Panama, N.Y. She was the daughter of Rev. Edward Fowler Fish and Anna Johnson Hinsdale. In September 1875 she entered the Western Female Seminary in Oxford, Ohio.<sup>2</sup> In 1876 she enrolled in Ingham University in Le Roy, N.Y.<sup>3</sup>, graduating in June 1879.<sup>4</sup> She was an excellent student and spoke at the commencement exercises.<sup>5</sup> She taught for a year in the Du Quoin public schools<sup>6</sup> and also gave music lessons.<sup>7</sup>

She married Charles Gracchus Neely September 9, 1880, in St. Louis, Mo., at the home of the minister, Rev. Peter S. Van Nest. According to the Du Quoin Tribune, "The evening was pleasant and peaceful, the company cheerful and social, the arrangements were easy and appropriate – all only an earnest of a prosperous and symmetrical domestic life, and a blissful and glorious future." The family moved to Evanston, Ill., in the fall of 1884. Lucia was a devoted wife and a hard-working homemaker and mother. Diaries written when her children were young show her as an energetic, busy woman, and a prodigious seamstress. 10

In 1889 Lucia visited her parents and sister in Carpinteria, Calif. <sup>11</sup> The journey took six days by train, and she remembered stopping at the Petrified Forest, where all the passengers were let out for sightseeing. While in California, she visited San Francisco with her father. <sup>12</sup> In 1906 she

&lt;sup>6</sup> On Sept. 25, 1879, she wrote to Charles: "I think I have very good order in the school-room, my scholars seem to like me, and I enjoy teaching them. Of course it is too early yet to say how much they are learning, but I mean to do my best for them. I study all my lessons thoroughly and it takes some time. We get up about six o'clock and I start to school at half-past eight." On March 31, 1880, she wrote: "My scholars did well yesterday, and I have received many words of encouragement. Mr. Phillips said he knew of but one reason why I should not make one of their excellent teachers for many years to come. He didn't say what that reason was but it is not hard to guess. I did not close my school without some feelings of regret that it is the very last, but honestly, Charlie, I am happy all the time that I am not to teach another year. "

&lt;sup>11</sup> Her diary of 1894 has a short chronology of family events, including: "I took Ruth, Clara and Helen, and went with Henry Fish to Carpinteria, Cal., starting June 17, 1889. Arrived June 21. August 1, 1889, Father Fish, Helen and I went from Santa Barbara to San Francisco by steamer, returning the same way and reaching Santa Barbara and Carpinteria, Aug. 14. I left Carpinteria for home, Sept. 2, and reached Chicago and Evanston, Sept. 7, 1889.

&lt;sup>12</sup> Letter from Lucia Neely to Dorothy Pratt, Oct. 8, 1948: "We are all thinking of Lucia's wonderfully speedy trip from Washington to S. F. And of course that gave me a chance to tell about my trip from Chicago to L. A. in 1889 taking six days. I could enlarge on the leisurely stops for meals three times a day at the wonderful Harvey eating went to Europe with her son John. They stayed two months and visited London, Paris, Holland and the Lake District.<sup>13</sup>

In 1910 the family moved to California, first to Pomona, then to Claremont. <sup>14</sup> They rented several homes before buying a house at 739 College Ave. <sup>15</sup> She was interested in Pomona College and community affairs, and was a member of Campus Wives and the Rembrandt Club. She was a member of the Claremont Church and served on its board of trustees and as president of the Women's Federation. <sup>16</sup>

In September 1930 Lucia and Charles celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Charles presented her with a radio; a card said "Best love. Happy hours. Happy days. Happy years." He died the following month. After that, Lucia rented rooms to college students -- including conductor Robert Shaw. Later she and her daughter Charlotte built a smaller house next door (727 College Ave.). She was vitally interested in the events of the day and was an avid reader. At age 70 she began reading 100 "great books" suggested in an article by Will Durant. She completed the course of reading in four years. <sup>18</sup>

Lucia died October 30, 1952, at age 93, in Claremont. She is buried in the Oak Park Cemetery. A service was held at Todd Memorial chapel, on November 3. The speakers were Rev. Harold G. Jones, pastor of the Claremont Community Church, and Rev. James A. Blaisdell, president emeritus of Pomona College. In a letter written to Charlotte, a friend said: She had the kind of personality that makes her vivid and stimulating even now . . . for she was lovely to look at, charming to know, intelligent and humorous.

Really, it is quite a story, and in retrospect I am glad I had that experience. It was made easier by the circumstance that I was nursing Helen, so had no feeding difficulties with her. But it was hard, too."

In another letter from Isabell Fothergill Smith, written on Nov. 8th (1952), she wrote: "Dear Charlotte, I feel impelled to add a postscript to the note I wrote you a week ago. As I sat in the chapel waiting for the service for your mother, I found myself saying: Everything I remember about Mrs. Neely is bright, radiantly bright. And later, as Dr. Blaisdell's wonderful (as always) and illuminating talk progressed, I realized that what made your mother's memory so bright was the fact that her face always radiated something of both deep and high meaning. She was beautiful. No wonder you must be so very proud of her memory. Affectionately, Isabel.

Edward Fowler Fish(2) and Anna Johnson Hinsdale (3)

Rev. Edward Fowler Fish was born in Monticello<sup>28</sup>, Sullivan County, N.Y., September 23, 1828<sup>29</sup>, the son of Rev. John Berrien Fish and Lucia Hull.<sup>30</sup> In an account of his life he wrote: "My preparation for college began under the Rev. Ely Burchard, who lived on his farm a mile from Waterville, Oneida Co., N.Y. My home was at Sangerfield, a mile south of the village. Afterward I was at the Waterville Academy and still later at Oxford Academy, in Chenango Co." In 1845 he entered Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y., where he reports his conversion as having occurred in his junior year.<sup>31</sup> He graduated in 1848.<sup>32</sup>

"After leaving college, I spent four years in teaching and traveling. Entered Lane Theological Seminary in Sept. 1852 and spent three years in the regular course. In 1855 I visited Boston and was accepted as a foreign missionary by the A.B.C.F.M. but went back to Lane to spend a year as instructor in Hebrew. During the winter vacation I met with an accident, the breaking of a ligament in my left ankle, which resulted in a severe sickness that unfitted me for going abroad. So I entered the Home Missionary service." 33

Edward Fowler Fish married Anna Johnson Hinsdale at Iowa City, Iowa, September 6, 1856. The officiating minister was a friend, Rev. Peter S. Van Nest.<sup>34</sup> She was born August 21, 1830<sup>35</sup>, in a farmhouse near Le Roy, Genesee County, N.Y.<sup>36</sup> She was the daughter of Elizur Hinsdale and Hannah Johnson.<sup>37</sup> She attended the Le Roy Female Seminary and graduated about 1850. She made a special study of art under Phineas Staunton.<sup>38</sup> In 1857 the school became Ingham University, the first women's university in the United States.<sup>39</sup> Lucia (Fish) Neely wrote that her mother "taught us orderliness, neatness, (and) household skills. . . . She loved bright colors and taught us to observe beauty of landscape, distance, colors, and outlines. I owe much to my mother."<sup>40</sup> It is apparent from letters that she was a cheerful and warm-hearted woman. For example, when she and her husband were at the spa in Clifton, N.Y., she asked the doctor if there were any low-spirited patients that she could visit.

Anna Johnson (Hinsdale) Fish

Having been licensed by the Scioto Presbytery in 1854 at Chillicothe, Ohio, and ordained at Mount Vernon, Ia., in February 1857, Rev. Fish began his work as a home missionary. This was soon interrupted by poor health, however. In November 1858, "though still feeble in health, [he] took charge of the church of Panama, N.Y." In March 1860, while at Panama, he was exposed, on horseback, to a damp snowstorm, which resulted in bronchitis and a persistent cough. 42

Later he spent a year and a half as superintendent of public schools in Lancaster, Ohio, where he had 14 teachers and 800 pupils under his charge. 43 Starting in about August 186244, he spent two years in teaching at Marietta College. By this time there were three children: Cara, born in Mount Vernon, Iowa; Lucia, born in Panama, N.Y.; and Edward, born in Marietta, Ohio. Lucia later wrote that "after his dreams of life as a foreign missionary, father could not be satisfied with a life so comfortable as that in Marietta (which suited my mother exactly) and so resigned and went as a Home Missionary to the wilds of northern Wisconsin in the Green Bay region." <sup>45</sup> In September 1864, he went to Stevens Point, Wisc. 46 He "preached two years to the New School

&lt;sup>46</sup> Anna Hinsdale recalled years later: "I remember well the long, dreary ride that September day in the stage coach. I had never been in a stage before, and an all day's ride, with three little children, and the coach full as I thought, even before we got in, was quite distressing, rather than enjoyable. We arrived in Stevens Point at midnight, went to a hotel. After boarding one week there, we went to board with Mrs. Prentice, Sabbath day, September 11, 1864." Stevens Point Journal, Feb. 2, 1895.

church of Stevens Point, and the Old School church of Plover."<sup>47</sup> He was the first pastor at Stevens Point. 48

Being the wife of a minister, Anna was undoubtedly very involved in church and in supporting the work of her husband. In a letter written to the Stevens Point Journal in 1895, she recalled her experiences, 30 years earlier, of helping to fix and paint the church, which had been in disrepair. She also helped with fundraising, making cake and ice cream and selling it to raise money to assist in the repair of the church. <sup>49</sup>

Rev. Fish also preached at Columbus, Wisc., 50 and then Carbondale, Ill., before moving to Du Ouoin, Ill., in 1871. He began as the stated supply at the Presbyterian church in Du Ouoin on November 26, 1871, and was installed there as pastor, December 15, 1872.<sup>51</sup> The family lived in Du Quoin for seven years. In December 1877, Edward was thrown from his buggy and again had to resign from preaching. In February 1878, he left Du Quoin, "for Denver, Colorado Springs, and possibly California."<sup>52</sup> From 1879 to 1881, he was at a spa in Clifton Springs, N.Y., undergoing Turkish baths, oil-rubs, "dry electricity," and various other treatments. His brother Charles gave him financial support during these years and at other times of need.<sup>53</sup>

By April 1881 he was well enough to resume preaching at Franklinville, N.Y. There his sermons included a memorial service for assassinated President Garfield. After about a year he resigned, due to divisions in the church. "The year of suspense and homelessness that followed was one of the most trying of my life," he wrote. 54

He went to California in December 1882.<sup>55</sup> There he preached at Gilroy<sup>56</sup>, San Pablo<sup>57</sup>, and Carpinteria (1887-1890).<sup>58</sup> They had apparently had returned to Evanston, Ill., to be near their

&lt;sup>52</sup> DuQuoin Tribune, Feb. 21, 1878: "Rev. Mr. Fish of our city, departed on Wednesday evening for Denver, Colorado Springs, and possibly California, whither he goes for the benefit of his health. For some time past, Mr. Fish has been failing in health, and it finally became necessary for him to abandon his labors in the ministry and devote his whole time to the rebuilding of his health."

&lt;sup>56</sup> He wrote a letter to Charles G. Neely from Gilroy on Sept. 19, 1884. In his diary entry of Oct. 13, 1885 he states that "Gilroy threw me out simply because I was loval to Christ. The Lord is my witness. And now since the end of May I have been homeless, a cypher among my brethren, waiting for work and finding nothing to do...."

daughter Lucia. Anna Hinsdale Fish died at ten o'clock in the morning, December 13, 1898, <sup>59</sup> in Evanston, Ill. She probably had cancer. <sup>60</sup> Her funeral was conducted December 14th, at the home of Charles and Lucia Neely, in Evanston. 61 She is buried in the Rose Hill Cemetery in Chicago. 62

On the 1900 census, he is listed as a clergyman, living with his son Edward H. Fish, in Brooklyn Township, Alameda County, California. 63 Rev. Edward Fowler Fish died January 20, 1906, in Evanston<sup>64</sup>, and is buried in the Rosehill Cemetery in Chicago.<sup>65</sup>

He wrote: "I have been hampered all my life by disease. Yet the Lord has made no mistake. Goodness and mercy have followed me all my days. I can truly say that these last days of infirmity and suffering have been the best days of my life. For every trial there is compensation and there is no one with whom I would exchange places."66

Rev. Edward Fowler Fish was a strong advocate of temperance, and spoke out against such things as Sabbath-breaking and dancing. According to his daughter Lucia, "Father was very strict, but never, as I realize later, narrow. And his strictness was so tempered with loving kindness, and his gentle, unfailing love, that it was accepted willingly, without question or resentment." One of my dearest pictures of my father," Lucia wrote, "is as I have seen him so often Sabbath mornings, his white linen and vest without a spot or wrinkle . . . his eves looking so blue, his hair so brown and wavy, sitting in the sunlight, reading the Bible."68

John Berrien Fish (4) and Lucia Hull (5)

Rev. John Berrien Fish was born July 23, 1794, in Connecticut Farms, N.J., near what is now Elizabeth, N.J.<sup>73</sup> He was the son of Rev. Peter Fish and Hannah Hankinson. He was an apprentice in woolen mills and mercantile stores in New York City, and at the age of 16 he worked for his brother Thomas. From 1814 to 1815 he worked in a cotton mill in Patterson, N.J.<sup>74</sup>

In the spring of 1820 he went to Kanawha, Va., (about six miles up river from Charleston, in present-day West Virginia). He worked and slept there in a store with his brother Nathaniel. In the fall of 1820 he had a religious conversion, which is described in full in a diary written in 1852. He wrote: "As I was walking from my store toward the hills, my mind was on God and his character, and my soul was filled with a sweet sense of God's goodness as a sovereign doing as he will with all creatures."

In 1824 John Berrien Fish entered Auburn Theological Seminary, in Auburn, N.Y. He graduated in 1826.<sup>76</sup> He married Lucia Hull, daughter of Dr. Laurens Hull and Dorcas Ambler, on August 9, 1826,<sup>77</sup> in Bridgewater, N.Y.<sup>78</sup>

In 1828 John B. Fish was ordained as a Presbyterian minister in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. He went to live with his brother Thomas in Canterbury, N.Y. He kept an extensive diary. According to Henry Brown, a descendant, "The first ten years in the ministry were a succession of reverses and failures which further tested his faith." <sup>79</sup>

After living briefly in Liberty and Monticello, N.Y., the family moved to Sidney by June 1829. He left two years later due to a controversy concerning the Masons. By January 1831 the family had moved to Chester, N.Y. Besides preaching, he had a garden, owned livestock, and enjoyed travel and business affairs. In May 1834 he left Chester, noting that he had preached 37 funerals in 26 months there. The family then returned to Canterbury. Rev. Fish didn't have a pastorate at this time so he had to spend time "candidating" in various towns. He received financial support from relatives such as his father-in-law Dr. Hull and his aunt Susanna Riker. 80

In June 1835 his wife Lucia became ill. On March 31 the following year the family moved to Hartwick, N.Y. Lucia was taken there on a bed on a sleigh. Her illness was described as "some disease of the liver that afterwards affected her lungs." She was very feeble and did not walk for a year. She was also mentally deranged for much of this period. In April John B. Fish wrote, "all the funds of the United States bank would not compensate me for passing through such a scene of trial as the past year."<sup>82</sup> Lucia died July 1, 1836, at the age of 31. Her grave is in the Robinson Cemetery, just west of Hartwick.<sup>83</sup>

The inscription, which was probably written by her husband, reads:

Here rests in hope
Lucia
Wife of Rev. J. B. Fish
Died 1836
Aged 31
And is this death, 'Tis victory to die.
I mount on wings, I soar above the sky.
On the full glory of the Godhead gaze,
With saints and angels kindling in his rays.

On August 23, 1837, Rev. Fish married Nancy Stevens of Patterson, N.Y. She was born December 23, 1805, <sup>84</sup> the daughter of Samuel Stevens and Mary DeForest. <sup>85</sup>

Rev. Fish preached his last sermon in Hartwick on June 10, 1838. The family then moved to Sangerfield, where a church had a vacancy. He received $400 per year, plus additional benefits - a good amount of money in those days. He seemed happier there than he had been for many years. He enjoyed gardening in the summer and sleighing in the winter. He also read extensively.<sup>86</sup>

In 1844 the family returned to Sidney (then called Sidney Plains.) In October 1852 the family moved to the parsonage at Hunter. In October 1854 he bought a 125-acre farm at Big Hollow where he became postmaster in May 1855. He also preached but didn't write much about his parish in his diary. In March 1860 he sold his house and land. The family then spent about three months traveling in a wagon in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.<sup>87</sup>

In August 1861 they moved to Hughsonville. He had expected to preach there but was disappointed when another candidate was given the position. He harvested onions, potatoes,

&lt;sup>85</sup> Henry Brown, 1975, comments included in diary excerpts mentioned above, p. 8. According to Brown, Mary DeForest was born May 6, 1775, and was a descendant of Jesse DeForest, who was born in Avesnes, France, in 1575. The DeForests are said to be Huguenots who first fled to Holland before coming to America. Brown states that "Nancy was from the DeForest estate at Fishkill" and that "her cousin, Jane DeForest Shelton, was an historian from Derby, Conn., who wrote The Salt Box in 1900. It is essentially an account of the Stevens family and a detailed description of American Colonial life."

carrots, cabbages, and turnips, and sold some. In February 1862 he sold the place at Hughsonville for $1700 and in April he bought a house in Cairo. <sup>88</sup>

On January 31, 1863, a family reunion marked only the second time that all eight of his children were together. Thomas came from Iowa, Edward from Ohio, and Emily from Central America. 89 Charles, who traveled overland from California, planned the event and bore the travel expenses of the others. 90

In April 1863 Fish bought a house in Catskill for $2000 cash, possibly with help from his son Charles. Rev. John Berrien Fish died in Catskill December 23, 1869. He is buried in the Catskill Village Cemetery on Thompson Street. 92

I visited Catskill and found his grave. The stone lies near the largest monument in the cemetery and is adjacent to the grave of John Ackley. The inscription reads:

REV. JOHN B. FISH
Born at Elizabethtown N.J.
JULY 23, 1794
Preached the Gospel forty years
Died at Catskill
DEC. 23, 1869
--Erected
by his Children

Rev. Fish did not preach in Catskill, although as late as 1868 he was a substitute in nearby towns. He lived on what was then called the "Old Esopus Road." An 1867 map of Catskill which hangs in the county courthouse shows the location of his house.

According to Henry Brown, John Berrien Fish was "an intellectual conservative with little patience or humor. . . . With his strong stand on political and religious issues, he made more enemies than friends and left many parishes under unpleasant circumstances." He wrote about the dangers of Catholicism and was horrified by sects such as the Shouting Methodists. "He was

Elizur Hinsdale (6) and Hannah Johnson (7)

Captain Elizur Hinsdale was born in Canaan, Conn., on May 27, 1783. He was the son of Jacob Hinsdale and Mary Brace. Elizur and his first wife, Olive Doud, were married in Goshen, Conn., August 1, 1804. She was born January 13, 1785, in Goshen, Conn., the daughter of John Doud and Elizabeth Norton. She died October 28, 1816, in Winchester, Conn. Elizur's second wife was Betsey M. Hull, whom he married February 2, 1818, in New Milford, Conn. She was Parmeleeborn September 17, 1783, the daughter of Dr. Titus Hull and his second wife, Olive (Lewis). She may have been the widow of a Mr. Everett.

Elizur carried on an axe and scythe business at Winsted, Conn., before moving to Le Roy, N.Y. His second wife, Betsey, became insane and set fire to their home on November 23, 1827, killing herself and two of their daughters. This event was widely reported in many newspapers. The following is the account in the Le Roy Gazette:

"The house of Mr. Elizur Hinsdale was consumed by fire, and his wife and two children perished in the flames. Mrs. Hinsdale had been deranged for a number of months, and was confined to a small room in the house separated from the fire place by a plank partition with small crevices to admit the warmth. She had, in past years, had similar turns of derangement, and at such times was generally disposed to mischief. It is presumed that she set fire to the house, as she had in the early part of that evening and at other times threatened to do it. The probability is that she communicated with the fire by means of a line of straws from her bed, as she had before been discovered attempting to do it. Mr. H. had lain down, in his clothes, in an adjoining room, to rest for a short time, and upon awaking found the room in which his wife was confined in the flames. He attempted to enter it but was repulsed by the flames. He then endeavored to reach the chamber where the children slept, and was met by his daughter, thirteen years old, bearing her younger sister in her arms, who effected their escape. Before he could proceed any farther, the stairs gave way, and immediately after, the roof fell in and he was compelled to relinquish any further rescue and leaving the two remaining girls, aged seven and three years, to the flames. A young woman and a small boy who were in other parts of the house escaped with great difficulty. No property, not even an article of clothing, was saved. Mr. H. was severely burned upon his head and hands.

Mrs. Hinsdale was, when rational, a woman of superior talents and an accomplished mind. She was a worthy member of the Presbyterian church, and an adornment to her profession." <sup>119</sup>

Elizur was married a third time, to Hannah (Johnson) Sage, widow of Moses Sage. The marriage took place November 19, 1829, in Middletown, Conn. Hannah was born there May 5, 1792, and was the daughter of Seth Johnson and Jemima Miller. Hannah Johnson's first husband, Moses Sage, had died in 1820. She had one child by that marriage, Hezekiah, born about 1810, who died in 1840 in Le Roy, N.Y. Hezekiah married his step-sister, Charlotte Hinsdale.

Elizur's son, Elizur Brace Hinsdale, wrote an autobiography, from which we can glean some information about Elizur's character and interests:

"My parents were Connecticut people, who brought with them the sterling principles of the people of those times. They were devoted to the doctrines and teachings of the Presbyterian Church, and, as may be inferred, I received constant admonition in the principles of religion and morality..."

"My father was an ardent Whig and a believer in that great leader Henry Clay..."

"My father was a man of fine intellectual capacity and of as good attainments as could reasonably be expected under the circumstances of his life.... Extreme poverty and privation was his portion in early life. He managed to acquire the rudiments of an education. He was a great reader, and kept well posted upon the events of the times. He took an active part in all matters of religion, education, and politics. All these matters were subjects of conversation in the family, and my ears were alert to take in all the views expressed. The conversations in the family made a deep and lasting impression on my mind and made me eager to know more of the subjects. I recall his great interest in the invention of the electric telegraph. He would read the reports of the Patent Office on this invention and discuss the great results likely to come from it.... I remember when the first message was sent from Baltimore to Washington. My father was as much elated as if it had been an achievement of his own." 121

Elizur Hinsdale died August 20, 1860, in Le Roy. According to an obituary in the Le Roy Gazette, "His death was sudden and unexpected, having been ill but a short days." His funeral was in the Presbyterian Church in Le Roy. <sup>122</sup> He is buried in the Myrtle Street Cemetery. <sup>123</sup> Hannah died April 27, 1863, also in Le Roy. <sup>124</sup>

Elizur left a will, in which he mentions his "beloved wife Hannah" and sons Elizur B. Hinsdale and William R. Hinsdale. Also mentioned in the probate papers are minors George Hinsdale, Olive Hinsdale, Edwin Hinsdale, and Almira Hinsdale, of Darien, N.Y.; Olive M. ## Peter Fish (8) Hannah Hankinson (9)

Rev. Peter Fish was born on his father's farm in Newtown, Queens County, N.Y., November 23, 1751. He was the son of Nathaniel Fish and Jane Berrien. He underwent a religious conversion in 1764, after hearing George Whitefield preach. At this time, he decided to become a minister.

When his father died in 1769, Peter inherited £250 and land in Ulster and Orange counties. He entered Princeton University, then called the College of New Jersey, graduating in 1774. On February 19, 1769, he joined the Cliosophic Society, adopting as his pseudonym the name of the Protestant hero of Londonderry, "Murray." His role in the commencement of 1774 was to be the third speaker, or replicator, in a forensic debate on the issue of national self-sufficiency.

He remained in Princeton immediately after graduation. According to Richard Harrison's book, Princetonians, Peter Fish may have studied theology with John Witherspoon and served as a sort of unofficial tutor, helping to instruct or examine undergraduates while he continued his own studies.<sup>145</sup>

In late 1776, life at Princeton was chaotic due to the war, and Peter Fish left the area. In May 1779 he was licensed by the Presbytery of New York. After serving briefly in Newark as the minister of a divided church, he went on a missionary tour of Southern New Jersey in 1781.

On June 30, 1785, Rev. Fish married Hannah Hankinson, daughter of Kenneth Hankinson and Eleanor Covenhoven, of Freehold, N.J. 146

He preached in Newtown<sup>147</sup> until being installed in 1789 as minister of the church in Connecticut Farms, near Elizabethtown, N.J. In 1792 (in Carlisle, Penn.) and 1796 (in Philadelphia) he represented the Presbytery of New York in the Presbyterian General Assembly.<sup>148</sup>

In May 1798, Rev. Fish went on a missionary tour of the New York frontier. In 1799, Rev. Fish and his family moved to the new settlement of Trenton, in Oneida County, N.Y. He was the first regular minister there, and spent half of his time in missionary work in other frontier towns. According to a visiting minister, he was "a sensible, judicious man -- and appears to be doing great good -- but has a poor reward." In 1803 he and another minister organized the first church (Congregational) in the town of Vernon, Oneida Co., N.Y. 152 He also preached "for some time" at the Marcellus First Church, in Onondaga County, N.Y. 153

Peter Fish was said to be "tall and spare" and "possessed through life a delicacy of constitution that greatly restricted his usefulness." <sup>154</sup> By 1807 his duties at Trenton had become too exhausting for him, and he returned to Newtown. He meant to retire there, but in 1810 the local pastor died and Rev. Fish agreed to preach until a permanent replacement could be found. Overtaxed, he died on November 12th of that year 155, in Newtown. His obituary stated, "In his death, religion has lost a firm and able supporter, society a man of liberal and enlightened mind, of unaffected piety, and exemplary morals. His family have sustained a loss, for which nothing can console them but a reliance on that power which giveth and taketh away."156

His gravestone was originally in the "old town burial ground on Court Street" in Newtown 157, and was moved in 1901 to the cemetery of the First Presbyterian Church of Newtown. Since that time all the gravestones there were either destroyed or removed. 158 Peter Fish's gravestone had the epitaph "Death is swallowed up in victory." 159

His widow Hannah died June 12, 1824. 160

Laurens Hull (10) and Dorcas Ambler (11)

Dr. Laurens Hull was born June 6, 1779, in Bethlehem, Conn. He was the son of Dr. Titus Hull and Olive Lewis. At the age of 19, he studied medicine with Dr. David Hull of Fairfield, remaining there about two years. <sup>164</sup> He was licensed to practice by the Connecticut State Medical Society in May 1802. <sup>165</sup> He moved to Augusta, Oneida County, N.Y., in November of that year and continued his studies with his cousin Amos G. Hull. <sup>166</sup> He married Dorcas Ambler October 3, 1803, in Bethlehem, Conn. <sup>167</sup> The ceremony was performed by Rev. Azel Backus. <sup>168</sup> Dorcas Ambler was born November 1, 1780, in Bethlehem, Conn., the daughter of David Ambler and Olive Wildman. <sup>169</sup>

In September 1804 Dr. Hull opened an office in Bridgewater, N.Y. In 1806 he took part in the organization of the Oneida County Medical Society. He was a surgeon in the New York State Militia during the War of 1812. In 1813 he was elected to the state assembly as a representative from Oneida County. In 1816 he was a delegate to the first state convention held in N.Y. to nominate a governor and lieutenant governor. <sup>173</sup> In 1817 he was a delegate to the State Medical Society and was twice reelected, each term being four years. In 1825 he served again in the state assembly. In 1826 he was elected a Fellow of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of New York. <sup>174</sup> The following year he received an honorary degree of doctor of medicine from the regents of the same university. <sup>175</sup>

In 1836 Dr. Hull and his family moved to Angelica, Allegany County, N.Y.<sup>176</sup> (He was discharged from the church at Bridgewater April 23 of that year.<sup>177</sup>) According to C. M. Crandall, at that time "he became interested in manufacturing pursuits, pretty much abandoning the practice of medicine." With his brother Andrew, he completed a woolen mill at Joncey, in September 1837. They also erected a scythe and edge tool factory across the road from the mill. Later, he lived in the brick building later known as the Wilson Academy. 180

Dr. Hull was president of the State Medical Society in 1839 and 1840, and his address (1839) on "Quackery" was considered one of the finest papers ever delivered before that body. In 1840 his address was on "Improvement in Medicine" which was described as "an eminently sensible, practical and ably written paper proving clearly that Dr. Hull was no anti-progressive clog upon the wheels of advancing science, but who believed fully in the doctrine of progress."

From 1837 to 1841 he served in the New York State Senate. He served in the sixth district, then comprising nine counties. Politically he was first a Federalist, then a Whig, and lastly a Republican. In a newspaper article written in 1837, he is described as follows:

"While a resident of this county, Dr. Hull was distinguished for his fidelity to his party [Whig] and devotion to its principles. When others desponded, he did not; when the hopes of others sank, his were still warm and sanguine, and when others abandoned to the contest, he kept the banner flying, with the motto of Lawrence in his mouth – 'don't give up the ship." 185

In 1828 and 1852 he was a member of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. He was a member of the Congregational Church, which at that time was closely united to the Presbyterian Church. (He was admitted to the First Congregational Church in Bridgewater, May 24, 1807. In his later years he was president of the Allegany County Bible Society. 188

In about 1856 or 1857, Dr. Hull retired from business. In August 1862 he became permanently disabled when he injured "the neck of the femur within the capsular ligament," requiring him to use crutches. In about 1864 his health began to decline, and he was eventually confined to his room. He died June 27, 1865, surviving his wife who had died May 4, 1857. They are

According to Henry Cookinham, "Dr. Hull was both in the medical societies and in the legislative bodies a constant and strenuous worker for the advance and purity of the medical profession."<sup>193</sup> C. M. Crandall writes: "Dr. Hull was in every proper sense a self-made man -the architect of his own fortunes and position. He possessed a remarkably retentive memory, great perseverance and energy. What he did 'he did with his whole might.' His industry was untiring, his faith unswerving, his integrity unvielding." <sup>194</sup>

Nathaniel Fish (16) and Jane Berrien (17)

Nathaniel Fish was born December 18, 1700, in Newtown, N.Y., the son of Nathan Fish and Judith Allison. He is referred to as "Daniel" in the town records. On February 15, 1737/8, he married Jane Berrien. 226 Jane (or Jannetie) was the daughter of Peter Berrien and Elizabeth Edsall<sup>227</sup>

Nathaniel Fish was a farmer. He died March 3, 1769, while attending services at the Presbyterian church. According to Riker, "Retaining in his face the color and freshness of health, his burial was deferred several days, but no change appearing, he was interred. It was made a question whether he was really dead."<sup>228</sup> His widow Jane died March 24, 1789.

His will reads as follows:

In the name of God, Amen. I, NATHANIEL FISH, of Newtown, in Queens County, being in perfect health. My executors are to sell all my lands and meadows in Newtown. I leave to my wife Jane my best bed, and my riding chair and horse, and £50; Also £125 a year during her widowhood, but if she marries, she shall have £12 a year. The rest of my personal estate is to be sold. I leave to my sons, John and Peter, £250 each out of the sale of my lands, and rights of land, in Wawayanda Patent in Orange County, and all my lands, divided and undivided, in Minisink Patent, lying partly in Orange and partly in Ulster County. All the rest of my estate I leave to my children, John, Peter, Elizabeth, Sarah, Judith, Susanah, Jane, and Ann, to be paid to them when of age or married. I make my son John (when of lawful age), and my son-in-law, Thomas Laurence, and Cornelius Berrien, son of Cornelius Berrien, deceased, and my nephew, Richard Betts, executors.

---Dated April 23, 1765. Witnesses, Hannah Brinkerhoff, Abraham Brinkerhoff, Tunis Brinkerhoff, Proved, March 29, 1769. 229

Kenneth Hankinson (18) and Eleanor Covenhoven (19)

Capt. Kenneth Hankinson was born January 24, 1731, <sup>233</sup> in Freehold, N.J. He was the son of Thomas Hankinson and Helena Anderson. He married, about 1757, Eleanor Covenhoven, or Conover. According to the New York Genealogical & Biographical Record, "a rather long and none too successful attempt has been made on the part of many researchers" to identify Eleanor's parents as William Covenhoven and Margaret Schenk. 234 Other sources say that Eleanor may have been the daughter of Ensign Elias Conover. (The names Conover and Covenhoven were interchangeable.<sup>235</sup>)

Eleanor Covenhoven Hankinson "was large and fleshy. In fact, so remarkably fleshy was she that it necessitated the enlargement of a pew door in Old Tennent Church to admit her person." 236

Capt. Kenneth Hankinson was in the Revolutionary War. He was in Col. Forman's Battalion in Heard's Brigade, in 1776, and in 1777 was captain in the First Brigade of Monmouth. On February 13, 1777, he was in the battle of Shrewsbury.

Records show that Capt. Kenneth was engaged in many businesses: farming, lumbering, blacksmithing and distilling. A small yellow cider apple was named for him.<sup>237</sup>

He died in October 1807. Eleanor Hankinson had died July 19, 1802.<sup>238</sup> They are buried in the cemetery of the Old Tennent Church, in Monmouth County, New Jersey. (A visit to the graveyard in 1992 revealed that both gravestones are intact, although Kenneth's is unreadable.)<sup>239</sup>

Titus Hull (20) and Olive Lewis (21)

Dr. Titus Hull was born March 25, 1750/1, in what is now Bethlehem, Conn. He was the son of Zephaniah Hull and Hannah Doolittle. He moved to Cheshire to live with an uncle when his parents died in 1760. He studied medicine with Dr. Seth Bird of Litchfield. He returned to Bethlehem, Conn., where he married Lucy Parmelee in 1772<sup>243</sup> and had two children who died in infancy. Lucy died in November 1776 and is buried in Bethlehem. She was the daughter of Jonathan Parmelee of Chatham.

In 1778 he married Olive (Lewis) Parmelee, widow of Abram (or Abraham) Parmelee. Olive was born June 20, 1754, in Farmington, Conn., and was the daughter of Nehemiah Lewis and Experience Strong. Olive, along with her sister Experience, engaged in a spinning match, in about 1770, in Goshen, Conn. "When they finished, it is said that the marks of bloody fingers in the stairway in their passage below attested the severity of their labors." 247

Titus is listed on the 1790 census as the head of a family of 14, including one slave. He served four times as tax collector, was on the school committee, and was town clerk of Bethlehem from 1793 to 1805.<sup>248</sup>

Dr. Hull was a surgeon in the Revolutionary War and at one time a "minute man." He is said to have been a volunteer in Capt. Andrew Martin's company. According to William Cothren, "he was a respectable physician, and perhaps more celebrated in treating diseases of the bowels, particularly every variety of colic, than any other man in the state, in his day." He moved to Danbury, Conn., in 1805, and to Utica, New York, in 1807. He died August 13, 1817, in

David Ambler (22) and Olive Wildman (23)

David Ambler was born April 28, 1738, in Stamford, Conn. He was the son of Stephen Ambler and Deborah Hoyt. He married Olive Wildman, November 3, 1761, in Danbury. She was the daughter of Isaac Wildman and Elizabeth Boughton, <sup>275</sup> of Danbury, Conn., and the sister of Rev. Benjamin Wildman of Southbury.

David's name appears in the Stamford land records until 1773, when he moved to Bethlehem, Conn. He was a magistrate, and during the Revolution rendered service as a member of the Committee of Safety. He represented Woodbury and Bethlehem at ten sessions of the state legislature. He acquired large land holdings and the inventory of his estate shows his family to have been affluent.<sup>277</sup>

David died January 8, 1808<sup>278</sup>, in Bethlehem.<sup>279</sup> He is buried in the Old Cemetery in Bethlehem.<sup>280</sup> His wife Olive went to live with daughter Dorcas and son-in-law Laurens Hull. She died August 3, 1827, in Bridgewater, N.Y., and is buried in the Fairview Cemetery there.<sup>281</sup>

Jonathan Brace (26) and Mary Messenger (27)

Jonathan Brace was baptized November 30, 1707, in Hartford, Conn. He was the son of John Brace and Mary Webster. 289 He was engaged to marry a Miss Messenger of Hartford, who was drowned by a boat capsizing under a bridge between Hartford and West Hartford. He was on his way to see her at the time she drowned. He married her sister, Mary Messenger, November 9, 1738. She was the daughter of Daniel Messenger and Lydia Royce. <sup>290</sup>

In 1740 the family moved to Harwinton, where he became one of the proprietors of the town.<sup>291</sup> Jonathan died there on December 2, 1787. Mary died March 20, 1798, age 80. They are buried in the Old Burying Ground in Harwinton, and share a single gravestone. <sup>292</sup>

Jonathan's death is recorded in the Connecticut Courant, as follows:

"On the 2d day of inftant December died at Harwinton Mr. Jonathan Brace, in the 80th year of his age.",293

Mary's death was recorded in the same newspaper, as:

"DIED at Harwinton, on the 20th inftant, after a short sicknefs, Mrs. MARY BRACE, (widow) in the 81st year of her age. She was a native of this town and of the first family which removed at fettled in the town where she deceafed; has left numerous offspring of more than one hundred perfons, now living. Through the courfe of a long life, fhe has flourifhed an example of piety, parental kindnefs, and affection, to which few have attained; and difcharged the various other important duties of domeftic concern in an eminent degree, and in a manner worthy of imitation."294

Thomas Hankinson (36) and Helena Anderson (37)

Thomas Hankinson, said to have been born in 1707, was probably the son of Thomas Hankinson Sr. He lived in Monmouth County, New Jersey. He married, first, Helena Anderson. 325 She was the daughter of Col. John Anderson and Anna Reid. 326 She died February 19, 1748, at age 41 years, 9 months and 13 days. 327 Helena was buried in the Topanemus Cemetery, in Marlboro, N.J., and her gravestone later moved to the Episcopal Church at the corner of Throckmorton and Main St., in Freehold, N.J. The stone is broken but is almost entirely legible as follows:

> ...lyes interr'd the Body Hellana wife of Thomas Hankinson who Departed this Life February the nineteenth Day Anno Dominus one thousand Seven hundred Forty Seven Aged Forty one years nine Months and thirteen days. 328

He married, secondly, Hannah (Ashton) Throckmorton, daughter of John Ashton and widow of Job Throckmorton.

He must have died between August 6, 1783, when he made his will, and September 16 1783, when his will was proved. His will mentions daughter Lydia Covenhoven (who received a colt), granddaughter Hannah Lawrence (who received 2 acres of land in Freehold Township, "of the farm I formerly lived on at Manalapan, near the Burlington Road", daughter-in-law Elizabeth Hankinson, "wife of my son James", and son Kenneth (who acted as executor.)<sup>329</sup>

Children, by his first wife Helena Anderson:

Zephaniah Hull (40) and Hannah Doolittle (41)

Dr. Zephaniah Hull was born August 15, 1728, in Wallingford (now Cheshire), Conn. He was the son of Dr. John Hull and Sarah Ives. He married Hannah Doolittle March 28, 1749 in Wallingford, and settled in Bethlehem, Conn. Hannah was born in Cheshire, November 7, 1732, the daughter of Lt. Moses Doolittle and Lydia Richardson. <sup>331</sup>

He moved to Bethlehem, Conn., in about 1754, joining the church that year from the New Cheshire Parish. <sup>332</sup> Zephaniah Hull was "a great friend of the celebrated Dr. Bellamy, and recognized as a man of high character and great influence both as physician and citizen. <sup>333</sup> He and his wife died the same day, November 10, 1760, of the "great sickness" (a malignant pleurisy.) Two of their children died within a week. <sup>334</sup> Soon after these deaths, "one Deacon Strong coming by, raised a flock of eleven quails, which flew over the. . house, and dropped in the garden; immediately after three rose and flew into the bushes, but the other eight were picked up dead. <sup>335</sup> This was thought to be symbolic of the fact that only three in the family survived. This story was told by their daughter Lydia. In all, 34 people died of the "great sickness" in November of that year in the small town of Bethlehem.

Dr. Hull and his wife are buried in the Old Burying Ground on the south side of Bellamy Lane. Their tombstones are among the oldest standing.<sup>337</sup>

Nehemiah Lewis (42) and Experience Strong (43)

Nehemiah Lewis was born May 3, 1705, in Farmington, Conn. He was the son of Samuel Lewis and Elizabeth ----. He married Jerusha Gridley, November 21, 1728. She was the daughter of Samuel Gridley and Ruth Lewis. She died in Bethlehem, Conn., September 25, 1745.

He married, second, Experience Strong, September 19, 1749. She was born April 10, 1714, in Northampton, Mass., and was the daughter of Jonathan Strong and Mehitable Stebbins. Experience was converted at Northampton, during the pastorate of Rev. Jonathan Edwards, a famous minister of the time.

Nehemiah joined the church in Farmington in 1734. He probably moved to Goshen in about 1748, prior to his marriage to Experience Strong. Nehemiah was a representative from Goshen in 1767.

Nehemiah Lewis died July 10, 1779, in Goshen, Conn. He is buried in the East St. Cemetery there. His widow Experience died in Bethlehem, Conn., November 28, 1805. According to her death notice in the Connecticut Courant, she died November 29th: "At Bethlem, Nov. 29, the Widow Experience Lewis, in the 92 year of her age."

Stephen Ambler (44) and Deborah Hoyt (45)

Stephen Ambler was born in 1698, in Stamford, Conn. (Two sources say June 22, 1698). He was the son of John Ambler and Martha Wildman. He married Deborah Hoyt, December 14, 1721, in Stamford. She was the daughter of Benjamin Hoyt and Elizabeth Jagger.

Stephen was frequently referred to as "Sergeant Ambler" until 1769 when he became deacon of the First Church. He probably spend much of his life in Northfields, north of Stamford City, and on Davenport Ridge. He had large land holdings throughout the town.

Stephen was selectman in 1754, serving two years. His wife Deborah died October 8, 1768 in Stamford. Stephen married Mrs. Mercy Benedict of New Canaan, Conn., June 28, 1770.

Stephen's will was dated September 12, 1770, and was probated November 25, 1783. He was probably buried in the Stamford Congregational Cemetery, "long since destroyed." His widow was living alone in Canaan according to the 1790 federal census. She may have been the widow Ambler who died at age 84 in 1801. 349

Barnabas Hinsdale (48) and Martha Smith (49)

Barnabas Hinsdale Jr. was born in Hatfield, Mass., February 20, 1668. He was the son of Barnabas Hinsdale Sr. and Sarah White. He married Martha Smith, November 9, 1693. She was the daughter of Joseph Smith and Lydia Huit, of Hartford, Conn. 354

Barnabas Jr. moved to Hartford in 1693 and died there of the "great sickness" on January 25, 1725. His grave is at the Centre Cemetery in back of the First Church at Hartford. His widow died December 1738, aged 68.<sup>355</sup>

Barnabas left a will, dated January 25, 1724/5. In it he mentions his "beloved wife" Martha, and children Barnabas, Jacob, John, Daniel, Amos, Martha, Sarah, Elizabeth and Mary noting that Sarah and John will receive less than the other children "for the trades they have learned." 356

Children:<sup>357</sup>

Hinsdale of Hartford, do make this my last will and testament: I give and bequeath to Martha, my beloved wife, the improvement of 1-2 of my house during the time she remains my widow; 1-3 part of all my moveable estate to be her own forever, and 1-3 part of all my real estate in houseing and lands for her improvement during life. I give to my eldest son Barnabas Hinsdale £20 out of my estate (besides what I have given him in and by a deed of gift), to be to him, his heirs and assigns forever. I give all the rest of my estate, both real and personal, unto my children, Jacob, John, Daniel, Amos, Martha, Sarah, Elizabeth and Mary Hinsdale, to be equally divided among them, only Sarah to have £10 and John £15 less in their portions than the other children for the trades they have learned. ## Daniel Messenger (54) and Lydia Royce (55)

Capt. Daniel Messenger was born in about 1683.<sup>369</sup> He was the son of Samuel Messenger and his wife Susanna.<sup>370</sup> He married, Lydia Royce, January 23, 1703/4, in Wallingford, Conn.<sup>371</sup> She was born May 28, 1680, in Wallingford, and was the daughter of Nehemiah Royce and Hannah Morgan.<sup>372</sup>

He lived in Norwalk in 1702, Wallingford in 1703, and "soon removed to Hartford, Conn., where he was in 1715 and 1727; and by 1730 had settled in Harwinton, Conn., dying abt. 1751." While in Hartford, he had bought land near the ferry landing in 1724, and built a house there. He had expected to secure a lease for building a ferry there, and had provided "boats, scows and other vessels," but the lease was sold to another man who bid higher. "In 1728, being then a 'tavern-keeper', he sold his property and moved elsewhere." In 1725, he requested reimbursement for expenses incurring when a stranger, Jonathan Taylor, took sick at his house in Hartford, and died there.

His wife had died between 1747 and 1751. Daniel was one of the first settlers of Harwinton, and had been a captain in the train band there. In 1748 he was on a committee to "order and point a School master and School mistreses" for the "Larning of the youth amongst us to w(r)ight and Reade."

His home lot was on the northwest side of the present intersection of Burlington Rd. and Woodchuck Lane. He was among those who gave land to furnish the town with a "Burying Place." Place."

<sup>400</sup> A Digest of the Early Connecticut Probate Records: To all people to whom these presents shall come, greeting: Whereas, we, Stephen Miller and James Miller, both of Middletown, are by heirship and quitclaims from the other heirs of our honered father, Thomas Miller, late of Middletown deceased, the lawfull owners of the real estate of our sd. father lying and being in sd. Middletown, which we agree to divide as followeth: We do agree to improve the mill joyntly, each one to hold an equal share therein, with all the priviledges and appurtenances thereof, except the mill land. And the said James Miller, in consideration that the sd. Stephen Miller doth give me a lawfull quitclaim of all his right to the dwelling house and three acres of land that we bought of our uncles, Benjamin, John and Elijah Miller, do agree that he the sd. Stephen Miller shall have and hold all the dwelling house that did belong to our said father, and one acre and half more than half the lot on which said house standeth, to lye on the northern side thereof, which land contains in the whole lot about eighteen acres. And all that piece of land that lies on the hill called Captain's Hill, being westward from the mill, and all that piece of land that lies on the northern side of ye path or highway from the mill to the sd. dwelling house, unto all which I, the sd. James, do quitclaim to him the sd. Stephen, his heirs and assigns forever. And I, the sd. Stephen, do agree that he the sd. James shall have and hold all the remainder of sd. eighteen-acre lott, to lye on the southern side thereof, being the equal half of it wanting one acre and a half acre; and all that piece of land that lyeth southward of the sd. path or highway that leads from the mill to the dwelling house abovesaid
